increasingly hostile political interactions Forging Romantic China Peter J. Kitson, 2013-11-21 The first major cultural study to focus exclusively on this decisive period in modern British Chinese relations Based on extensive archival investigations Peter J Kitson shows how British knowledge of China was constructed from the writings and translations of a diverse range of missionaries diplomats travellers traders and literary men and women during the Romantic period The new perceptions of China that it gave rise to were mediated via a dynamic print culture to a diverse range of poets novelists essayists dramatists and reviewers including Jane Austen Thomas Percy William Jones S T Coleridge George Colman Robert Southey Charles Lamb William and Dorothy Wordsworth and others informing new British understandings and imaginings of China on the eve of the Opium War of 1839 42 Kitson aims to restore China to its true global presence in our understandings of the culture and literature of Britain in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries A Taste for China Eugenia Zuroski Jenkins, 2013-04-03 Challenging existing narratives of the relationship between China and Europe this study establishes how modern English identity evolved through strategies of identifying with rather than against China Through an examination of England's obsession with Chinese objects throughout the long eighteenth century A Taste for China argues that chinoiserie in literature and material culture played a central role in shaping emergent conceptions of taste and subjectivity Informed by sources as diverse as the writings of John Locke Alexander Pope and Mary Wortley Montagu Zuroski Jenkins begins with a consideration of how literature transported cosmopolitan commercial practices into a model of individual and collective identity She then extends her argument to the vibrant world of Restoration comedy most notably the controversial The Country Wife by William Wycherley where Chinese objects are systematically associated with questionable tastes and behaviors Subsequent chapters draw on Defoe Pope and Swift to explore how adventure fiction and satirical poetry use chinoiserie to construct question and reimagine the dynamic relationship between people and things The second half of the eighteenth century sees a marked shift as English subjects anxiously seek to separate themselves from Chinese objects A reading of texts including Aphra Behn's Oroonoko and Jonas Hanway's Essay on Tea shows that the enthrallment with chinoiserie does not disappear but is rewritten as an aristocratic perversion in midcentury literature that prefigures modern sexuality Ultimately at the century's end it is nearly disavowed altogether which is evinced in works like Charlotte Lennox's The Female Quixote and Jane Austen's Northanger Abbey A persuasively argued and richly textured monograph on eighteenth century English culture A Taste for China will interest scholars of cultural history thing theory and East West relations The London and China Telegraph ,1882 British Travel Writing from China, 1798-1901, Volume 1 Elizabeth H Chang, 2022-01-26 In 1793 Lord Macartney led the first British diplomatic mission to China in over one hundred years This five volume reset edition draws together British travel writings about China throughout the next century The collection ends with the Boxer Uprising which marked the beginning of the end of informal British empire on the Chinese mainland

Collectors, Collections and Museums Stacey Pierson, 2007 This book presents the first comprehensive study of the collecting consumption and display of Chinese porcelain in Britain from the 16th to the 20th century as well as the impact of this activity on British culture Beginning with the early porcelains acquired as objects of exotica and vessels for the consumption of tea and coffee followed by porcelains for display in the country house interior the first part of this book reveals the role of porcelain in Britain s developing economic relations with China and the impact of this material on both daily life and interior design The subsequent diplomatic and political conflicts of the 18th and 19th centuries provide a framework for an examination of British consumption of Chinese porcelain as both spoils of war and iconic representations of China material which helped to shape and influence British perceptions of China The final section demonstrates how these perceptions of China and its porcelain began to change significantly in the 20th century with porcelains acquired as works of art and displayed publicly in museums Collectors in Britain began to specialise in this area and actively invented a field of Chinese ceramics that was promulgated by learned societies and culminated in the founding of a museum of Chinese ceramics in London by one of the foremost British collectors Sir Percival David who donated his world class collection to the University of London in 1950

China Through The Ages Franz Michael,2019-03-13 Past studies of China have concentrated on specific events or have related a chronological history of the dynastic periods These works have included aspects of cultural history but have underemphasized the country s great social political and intellectual movements and their ultimate expression in the art and literature of the time By focusing on such themes Professor Michael provides a new framework for understanding the Chinese cultural tradition The author describes the evolving history of ideas in China from ancient faith in powerful magic to more modern concepts of a logical moral order of the universe and mankind s place in it He also explores the intellectual ferment following the dawn of the age of reason the integration of Buddhism into the Confucian social order and the social transformations accompanying the rise and fall of the centralized state Throughout he illustrates how the changing society s beliefs values and aesthetic sense were embodied in its art and literature This portrayal of the Chinese cultural tradition not only puts Chinese history in a new perspective it also illuminates the process through which China constructed a modern society from a non Western foundation and serves as an essential tool for understanding modern day China and its prospects for the future
