Christianity Without the Cross Thomas A. Fudge,2003 Grounded in primary source research this boldly revisionist book examines the doctrine of salvation in Oneness Pentecostalism United Pentecostal Church from its origins through its several developmental stages The gradual rise of a literal interpretation of Acts 2:38 eliminated a tradition of doctrinal diversity within Oneness thought which regarded salvation as occurring at repentance prior to water and Spirit baptism With this development a main link to the wider stream of evangelical Christianity was severed The water and Spirit theology resulted in a form of Christianity which does not necessarily require the cross in any meaningful sense for salvation This study recovers the lost theological tradition associated with important figures such as Howard A Goss A D Gurley W M Greer C H Tadon Wynn T Stairs Earl Jacques E P Wickens John Paterson and the Pentecostal Church Incorporated Combining traditional historical methodology and theological research with the principles of a broadly based oral history this study argues for a theological diversity within the history of Oneness Pentecostalism and in so doing bridges an important gap in the history and theology of the United Pentecostal Church American Childhood Anne Scott MacLeod,1995-10-01 In this collection of fourteen essays Anne Scott MacLeod locates and describes shifts in the American concept of childhood as those changes are suggested in nearly two centuries of children's stories Most of the essays concern domestic novels for children or adolescents stories set more or less in the time of their publication Some essays also draw creatively on childhood memoirs travel writings that contain foreigners observations of American children and other studies of children's literature The topics on which MacLeod writes range from the current politicized marketplace for children's books to the reestablishment and reconfiguration of the family in recent children's fiction to the ways that literature challenges or enforces the idealization of children MacLeod sometimes considers a single author's canon as when she discusses the feminism of the Nancy Drew mystery series or the Orwellian vision of Robert Cormier At other times she looks at a variety of works within a particular period for example Jacksonian America the post World War II decade or the 1970s MacLeod also examines books that were once immensely popular but currently have no appreciable readership the Horatio Alger stories for example and finds fresh intriguing ways to view the work of such well known writers as Louisa May Alcott Beverly Cleary and Paul Zindel Challenging Genres Paul L. Thomas,2010-01-01 Comic books achieved almost immediate popularity and profitability when they were first introduced in the U S throughout the late 1930s and early 1940s But comic books soon suffered attacks concerning the quality of this new genre medium combining text and artwork With the rise of graphic novels in the mid 1980s and the adaptation of comics to films in the twenty first century comics and graphic novels have gained more respect as craft and text called sequential art by foundational legend Will Eisner but the genre medium remains marginalized by educators parents and the public Challenging Genres Comic Books and Graphic Novels offers educators students parents and comic book readers and collectors a comprehensive exploration of comics graphic novels as a challenging genre medium This volume presents a history of comic books graphic novels an argument for valuing the genre medium and several chapters devoted to examining all subgenres of comics graphic novels Readers will discover key comics graphic novels and film adaptations suitable for the classroom and for anyone serious about high quality texts Further this volume places comics graphic novels within our growing understanding of multiliteracies and critical literacy

Representation and Memory in Graphic Novels Golnar Nabizadeh, 2019-04-16 This book analyses the relationship between comics and cultural memory By focussing on a range of landmark comics from the twentieth and twenty first centuries the discussion draws attention to the ongoing role of visual culture in framing testimony particularly in relation to underprivileged subjects such as migrants and refugees individuals dealing with war and oppressive regimes and individuals living with particular health conditions The discussion is influenced by literary and cultural debates on the intersections between ethics testimony trauma and human rights reflected in its three overarching questions How do comics usually complicate the production of cultural memory in local contents and global mediascapes

How do comics engage with and generate new forms of testimonial address and How do the comics function as mnemonic structures The author highlights that the power of comics is that they allow both creators and readers to visualise the fracturing power of violence and oppression at the level of the individual domestic communal national and international in powerful and creative ways Comics do not stand outside of literature cinema or any of the other arts but rather enliven the reciprocal relationship between the verbal and the visual language that informs all of these media As such the discussion demonstrates how fields such as graphic medicine graphic justice and comics journalism contribute to existing theoretical and analytics debates including critical visual theory trauma and memory studies by offering a broad ranging yet cohesive analysis of cultural memory and its representation in print and digital comics
