Mohammed, Frank Jacob, 2021-11-22 Marriage was historically not only a romantic ideal but a tool of exploitation of women in many regards Women were often considered commodities and marriage was far away from the romantic stereotypes people relate to it today While marriages served as diplomatic tools or means of political legitimization in the past the discourses about marital relationships changed and women expressed their demands more openly Discourses about marriage in history and literature naturally became more and more heated especially during the long 19th century when marriages were contested by social reformers or political radicals male and female alike The present volume provides a discussion of the role of marriage and the discourses about in different chronological and geographical contexts and shows which arguments played an important role for the demand for more equality in martial relationships It focuses on marriage discourses may they have been legal or rather socio political ones In addition the disputes about marriage in literary works of the 19th and 20th centuries are presented to complement the historical debates The Cambridge Diaries C. N. Barton, 2006 As soon as Joshua Bailey arrives at Cambridge University he feels like a fish out of water but his economics classes and extra curricular activities leave him little time to debate whether or not he actually belongs in this world of southern affluence and centuries old academic tradition Soon Josh is fully engaged in the highs and lows of college life from friendships that wax and wane and would be romances to wild parties and subsequent hangovers Carefully capturing the passion and intensity of university life this coming of age tale confronts the challenges of entering adulthood and reveals the lasting impact of relationships forged during the unforgettable college years
