

2024 Forecast

Coal Production

Coal is the largest fuel source of electricity generation in the world.

As low-carbon energy supplies struggle to keep up with the world's electricity demand, coal is filling the gap.

Coal Production

Change from 2021-2024

Coal is the largest source of energy-related CO₂ emissions.

COP26 saw 40 countries pledge to stop issuing permits and direct government support for new coal-fired power plants. The U.S., Russia, China, India, and Australia did not join the pledge.

Future Of Coal:

The Future of Coal Peter James, 1982 The Future of Coal, 2007 The purpose of the study is to examine the role of coal in a world where constraints on carbon emissions are adopted to mitigate global warming The study's particular emphasis is to compare the performance and cost of different coal combustion technologies when combined with an integrated system for CO₂ capture and sequestration Coal Power of the Future John Riddle, 2002-12-15 Explores the history of coal its benefits as a fuel resource the improvements that have been made to burn coal safely and the effects it could have on the economy in the future Future Coal Prospects World Coal Study, Robert P. Greene, J. Michael Gallagher, Carroll L. Wilson, 1980 Good No Highlights No Markup all pages are intact Slight Shelfwear may have the corners slightly dented may have slight color changes slightly damaged spine Annual Review and Forecast of Utah Coal Production and Distribution - 2009 Michael D. Vanden Berg, 2010-11 Utah coal production for 2009 dropped 9.7% to 21.9 million tons mostly due to the decreased demand as a result of the world wide economic downturn In fact all of Utah coal mines except the Emery mine recorded production declines Data for this report were gathered directly from coal producers and consumers and comparisons were made to national data news and company reports and data from industry experts Prospects for Future World Coal Trade, 1983 Future for Coal as a Fuel and Chemical Business Communications Co, 1974 Annual Review and Forecast of Utah Coal Production and Distribution — 2008 Michael D. Vanden Berg, 2010-03 Utah's coal industry remained steady in 2008 with production totaling 24.3 million short tons for the second straight year Production losses resulting from the closure of Utah American's deep Aberdeen mine and difficult mining conditions at the company's West Ridge operation were made up for by increased production at Canyon Fuel's Dugout Canyon Skyline and SUFCO mines With the economy running strong for much of the year employment averages increased 4.5% mostly on the anticipation of full scale longwall mining at Hiawatha Company's Bear Canyon mine The strong economy also helped the average price for a ton of Utah coal reach a 25 year high of 27.78 Distribution of Utah coal remained nearly steady in 2008 at 24.8 million tons while out of state coal imports increased by 68% with most coal going to the Bonanza power plant in eastern Utah The Future of Coal United States. Congress, United States House of Representatives, Committee On Science, 2017-12-14 The future of coal utilizing America's abundant energy resources hearing before the Subcommittee on Energy Committee on Science Space and Technology House of Representatives One Hundred Thirteenth Congress first session July 25 2013 Coal Wars Richard Martin, 2015-04-14 Since the late 18th century when it emerged as a source of heating and later steam power coal has brought untold benefits to mankind Even today coal generates almost 45 percent of the world's power Our modern technological society would be inconceivable without coal and the energy it provides Unfortunately that society will not survive unless we wean ourselves off coal The largest single source of greenhouse gases coal is responsible for 43 percent of the world's carbon emissions Richard Martin author of SuperFuel argues that to limit catastrophic climate change we must find a way to power our world with less polluting energy sources and we must do it in the next couple of decades or else it is game over It won't be easy as coal plants shut down across the United States and much of Europe turns to natural gas coal use is growing in the booming economies of Asia particularly China and India Even in Germany where nuclear power stations are being phased out in the wake of the Fukushima accident coal use is growing Led by the Sierra Club and its ambitious Beyond Coal campaign environmentalists hope to drastically reduce our dependence on coal in the next decade But doing so will require an unprecedented contraction of an established lucrative and politically influential worldwide industry Big Coal will not go gently And its decline will dramatically change lives everywhere from Appalachian coal miners and coal company executives to activists in China's nascent environmental movement Based on a series of journeys into the heart of coal land from Wyoming to West Virginia to China's remote Shanxi Province hundreds of interviews with people involved in or affected by the effort to shrink the industry and deep research into the science technology and economics of the coal industry Coal Wars chronicles the dramatic stories behind coal's big shutdown and the industry's desperate attempts to remain a global behemoth A tour de force of literary journalism Coal Wars will be a milestone in the climate change battle

Blackout Richard Heinberg, 2009-07-01 Coal fuels about 50 percent of US electricity production and provides a quarter of the country's total energy China and India's ferocious economic growth is based almost entirely on coal generated electricity Coal currently looks like a solution to many of our fast growing energy problems However while coal advocates are urging full steam ahead increasing reliance on the dirtiest of all fossil fuels has crucial implications for the global climate energy policy the world economy and geopolitics Drawbacks to a coal based energy strategy include Scarcity new studies suggest that the peak of world coal production may actually be less than two decades away Cost the quality of produced coal is declining while the expense of transport is rising leading to spiraling costs and increasing shortages Climate impacts our ability to deal with the historic challenge of climate change will hinge on reducing our coal consumption in future years Blackout goes to the heart of the tough energy questions that will dominate every sphere of public policy throughout the first half of this century and is a must read for planners educators and anyone concerned about energy consumption peak oil and climate change

The Future of Coal, 2007 The objective of the Sustainable Energy Technologies Reference and Information System SETRIS at Directorate General Joint Research Centre of the European Commission is to collect harmonise and validate information on sustainable energy technologies and to perform related techno economic assessments to establish in collaboration with all relevant national partners the scientific and technical reference information required for debate on a sustainable energy strategy in an enlarged EU and with a view to global sustainable development Produced for SETRIS this study aims to estimate the supply prospects for coal by 2030 and beyond as a function of likely demand The goal of the study is not to project future coal demand supply and prices but rather to highlight some facts and trends that may seriously affect coal supply in the future The analysis is based on a critical review of a number of literature sources complemented by the author's analysis. Marc Steen, Fred Starr and Aliki Georgakaki (JRC IE) are thanked for their contribution with comments, remarks and suggestions. This report is complemented by an additional report entitled Coal of the Future (EUR 22644 EN) prepared by Energy Edge Ltd (UK) as external consultants. The latter report aims at further clarifying some important techno-economic points identified in the present report in relation to coal supply.

Coal National Research Council, Commission on Engineering and Technical Systems, Board on Energy and Environmental Systems, Committee on the Strategic Assessment of the U.S. Department of Energy's Coal Program, 1995-07-13. The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) was given a mandate in the 1992 Energy Policy Act (EPACT) to pursue strategies in coal technology that promote a more competitive economy, a cleaner environment and increased energy security. Coal evaluates DOE's performance and recommends priorities in updating its coal program and responding to EPACT. This volume provides a picture of likely future coal use and associated technology requirements through the year 2040. Based on near, mid and long term scenarios, the committee presents a framework for DOE to use in identifying R & D strategies and in making detailed assessments of specific programs. Coal offers an overview of coal-related programs and recent budget trends and explores principal issues in future U.S. and foreign coal use. The volume evaluates DOE Fossil Energy R & D programs in such key areas as electric power generation and conversion of coal to clean fuels. Coal will be important to energy policymakers, executives in the power industry and related trade associations, environmental organizations and researchers. Coal: energy for the future J.P.
