Embodiment And Experience The Existential Ground Of Culture And Self:

Embodiment and Experience Thomas J. Csordas, 1994-11-17 Students of culture have been increasingly concerned with the ways in which cultural values are inscribed on the body. These essays go beyond this passive construal of the body to a position in which embodiment is understood as the existential condition of cultural life. From this standpoint, embodiment is reducible neither to representations of the body, to the body as an objectification of power, to the body as a physical entity or biological organism, nor to the body as an inalienable centre of individual consciousness. This more sensate and dynamic view is applied by the contributors to a variety of topics including the expression of emotion, the experience of pain, ritual healing, dietary customs, and political violence. Their purpose is to contribute to a phenomenological theory of culture and self, an anthropology that is not merely about the body but from the body. Embodiment and Experience Thomas J.

Csordas, 1994. A collection of essays examining the relationship between cultural values and the body as a source of symbols and instrument of experience. Embodiment and Experience Thomas J. Csordas, 2000 Embodiment and Experience Thomas J. Csordas, 1994 Sufi Women, Embodiment, and the 'Self' Jamila Rodrigues, 2022-12-30 This book is an ethnographic case study of Sufi ritual practice and embodied experience amongst female members of the Naqshbandi community. Drawing on fieldwork in Cape Town, South Africa, and Lefke, Cyprus, 2013-2014, the author examines women's experiences within a particular performance of Sufi tradition. The focus is on the ritual named hadra, involving the recital of sacred texts, music, and body movement, where the goal is for the individual to reach a state of intimacy with God. The volume considers Sufi practice as a form of embodied cultural behavior, religious identity, and selfhood construction. It explains how Muslim women's participation in hadra ritual life reflects religious and cultural ideas about the body, the body's movement, and embodied selfhood expression within the ritual experience. Sufi Women: Ritual, Embodiment, and the Self engages with studies in Sufism, symbolic anthropology, ethnography, dance, and somatic studies. Contributing to discussions of religion, gender, and the body, the book will be of interest to scholars from anthropology, sociology, religious ritual studies, Sufism, and gender studies and performance studies. The Magical Body Richard Eves, 2014-01-09 An intriguing exploration of the role and significance of the body in the world of a Pacific Islands people, the Lelet of New Ireland, Papua New Guinea. In vivid ethnographic detail, the monograph captures the fluidity and complexity of Lelet conceptions of corporeality and their significance to identity as they encounter the influences of modernity in the form of colonialism, Christianity, and cash cropping. The author examines the importance of the body to constructions of identity and difference and its role in the constitution of place and space. The book provides a richly detailed ethnographic study of magical belief and the body whilst paying particular attention to the polyvalent meanings of bodily images and metaphors as they are used in numerous contexts of magic. Perspectives on Embodiment Gail Weiss, Honi Fern Haber, 2002-05-03 Perspectives on Embodiment offers multiple ways of conceptualizing human corporeality. These essays collectively defy arbitrary distinctions between nature and culture and reveal the complex ways in which nature and culture interact to produce embodied subjects A central premise of this collection is that a variety of perspectives is needed to illuminate the fluid ever changing features of human corporeality This book not only explores what it means to be an embodied subject but also encourages speculation about our future bodily incarnations

An Archaeology of Prehistoric Bodies and Embodied Identities in the Eastern Mediterranean Maria Mina,Sevi Triantaphyllou,Yiannis Papadatos,2016-10-11

In the long tradition of the archaeology of the eastern Mediterranean bodies have held a prominent role in the form of figurines frescos or skeletal remains and have even been responsible for sparking captivating portrayals of the Mother Goddess cult the elegant women of Minoan Crete or the deeds of heroic men Growing literature on the archaeology and anthropology of the body has raised awareness about the dynamic and multifaceted role of the body in experiencing the world and in the construction performance and negotiation of social identity In these 28 thematically arranged papers specialists in the archaeology of the eastern Mediterranean confront the perceived invisibility of past bodies and ask new research questions Contributors discuss new and old evidence they examine how bodies intersect with the material world and explore the role of body situated experiences in creating distinct social and other identities Papers range chronologically from the Palaeolithic to the Early Iron Age and cover the geographical regions of the Aegean Cyprus and the Near East They highlight the new possibilities that emerge for the interpretation of the prehistoric eastern Mediterranean through a combined use of body focused methodological and theoretical perspectives that are nevertheless grounded in the archaeological record

how we are and whether we might be different Often we wish to alter ourselves to change our relationships and to transform the person we are in those relationships Not only a philosophical question about how other people change self alteration is also a practical care can I change and how Self Alteration How People Change Themselves across Cultures explores and analyzes these apparently universal hopes and their related existential dilemmas The essays here come at the subject of the self and its becoming through case studies of modes of transformation of the self They do this with social processes and projects that reveal how the self acquires a non trivial new meaning in and through its very process of alteration By focusing on ways we are allowed to change ourselves including through religious and spiritual traditions and innovations embodied participation in therapeutic programs like psychoanalysis and gendered care services and political activism or relationships with animals the authors in this volume create a model for cross cultural or global analysis of social self change that leads to fresh ways of addressing the self itself
