Banks, Macmillan/McGraw-Hill School Publishing Company, National Geographic Society (U.S.), 1997 An Ethnography of Cosmopolitanism in Kingston, Jamaica Huon Wardle, 2000 The author draws a parallel between Jamaican understandings of the self and the late philosophy of Immanuel Kant The ethnographic material presented here derived from two years fieldwork in Kingston suggest that Jamaicans understand themselves as global citizens This sense of self can be identified across multiple contexts oral performance music kinship and friendship economics and politics In light of Jamaican cultural experience the book argues for a reframing of ethnographic practice as an explicitly cosmopolitan cultural practice BOOK JACKET Mapping Men and Empire Richard Phillips, 2013-10-28 First published in 1996 Adventure stories produced and consumed in vast quantities in eighteenth nineteenth and twentieth century Europe narrate encounters between Europeans and the non European world They map both European and non European people and places In the exotic uncomplicated and malleable settings of stories like Robinson Crusoe they make it possible to imagine and to naturalise and normalise identities that might seem implausible closer to home This book discusses the geography of literature and looking at where adventure stories chart colonies and empires projecting European geographical fantasies onto non European real geographies including the Americas Africa and Australasia The English Catalogue of Books Published from January, 1835, to January, 1863, 1864 World, 1997

Cumulated Index to the Books, 1969 The Cumulative Book Index, 1922 Risk in Children's Adventure Literature Elly McCausland, 2024-05-31 Risk in Children's Adventure Literature examines the way in which adults discuss the reading and entertainment habits of children and with it the assumption that adventure is a timeless and stable constant whose meaning and value is self evident A closer enquiry into British and American adventure texts for children over the past 150 years reveals a host of complexities occluded by the term and the ways in which adults invoke adventure as a means of attempting to get to grips with the nebulous figure of the child Writing about adventure also necessitates writing about risk and this book argues that adults have historically used adventure to conceptualise the relationship between children and risk the risks children themselves pose to society the risks that threaten their development and how they can be trained to manage risk in socially normative and desirable ways Tracing this tendency back to its development and consolidation in Victorian imperial romance and forward through various adventure texts and media to the present day this book probes and investigates the truisms and assumptions that underlie our generalisations about children's love for adventure and how they
