Geology Of The North American Cordi Volume :

Did Westward Subduction Cause Cretaceous-Tertiary Orogeny in the North American Cordillera? Robert S. Hildebrand, 2009-01-01 Within the Sonora segment to the south break off magmatism was also prevalent Both the Canadian and Sonoran segments have abundant porphyry copper mineralization temporally and spatially associated with the break off magmas which suggests a genetic link between slab failure and porphyry copper mineralization By 53 Ma eastwardly dipping subduction of Pacific Ocean crust was generating arc magmatism on the amalgamated Cordilleran collision zone in both the Canadian and Sonoran segments Oceanic schists such as the Orocopia Pelona Rand were formed in the ocean basin west of Rubia and accreted during initiation of the new easterly dipping subduction zone A major transform fault called the Phoenix fault connects the Sevier fold thrust belt at the California Nevada border with that in eastern Mexico and separates the Great Basin and Sonoran segments It juxtaposes the Sierra Mojave Sonora block alongside the Transition Zone of the Colorado Plateau Cordilleran events affected the subsequent development of western North America For example the structural Basin and Range Province appears to coincide with the region where exotic allochthons sit atop North American crust in both the Great Basin and Sonoran segments Also within the triangular Columbia embayment large segments of Rubia appear to have escaped laterally during the Cordilleran orogeny to create a lithospheric hole that was later filled by basalt of the Columbia River and Modoc plateaux Geology of North America—An Overview Albert W. Wilson, G.A. Houseman, K.J.W. McCaffrey, A.G. Doré, S.J.H.

Buiter, 2019-11-11 Fifty years ago Tuzo Wilson published his paper asking Did the Atlantic close and then re open This led to the Wilson Cycle concept in which the repeated opening and closing of ocean basins along old orogenic belts is a key process in the assembly and breakup of supercontinents The Wilson Cycle underlies much of what we know about the geological evolution of the Earth and its lithosphere and will no doubt continue to be developed as we gain more understanding of the physical processes that control mantle convection plate tectonics and as more data become available from currently less accessible regions This volume includes both thematic and review papers covering various aspects of the Wilson Cycle concept Thematic sections include 1 the Classic Wilson v Supercontinent Cycles 2 Mantle Dynamics in the Wilson Cycle 3 Tectonic Inheritance in the Lithosphere 4 Revisiting Tuzo's question on the Atlantic 5 Opening and Closing of Oceans and 6 Cratonic Basins and their place in the Wilson Cycle

Mogk, Robert Mason, 2012-12-06 The 8th International Conference on Basement Tectonics was held in Butte Montana August 8-12 1988 Historically basement tectonics conferences have focused on such topics as reactivation of faults the influence of basement faults on metallogeny and hydrocarbon accumulation and the use of geophysical and remote sensing techniques to interpret subsurface and surface geology The 8th Conference diverged from past conferences in that a unifying theme was selected Because ancient major terrane or cratonic boundaries are often postulated to be fault zones which are subsequently reactivated the conference was organized to examine all aspects of ancient continental margins and terrane boundaries and to compare younger Mesozoic ones about which more is known with older Paleozoic and Precambrian ones Moreover because the 8th Conference was held in the northwestern United States a greater emphasis was placed on the Mesozoic margin of western North America and the
