

Genocide in Bosnia: The Policy of "Ethnic Cleansing," by Norman Cigar (College Station, TX: Texas A&M University Press, 1995), 247 pp., $29.95.

REVIEWED BY Stephen C.
Light, Ph.D.

Future scholars will look back upon the 20th century as a time of unprecedented advances in human civilization, from the discovery of antibiotics to the exploration of space. Yet this was also a century of genocide. Attempts to exterminate entire groups reached new levels of scale in the Nazi Holocaust of 50 years ago. And now, as the bloody century staggers through its closing decade, genocide has erupted in the Balkans under the cruel new rubric of "ethnic cleansing."

Norman Cigar approaches the Bosnian genocide from his position as Professor of National Security Studies at the U.S. Marine Corps School of Advanced Warfighting. The language of Genocide in Bosnia is military, encompassing terms such as "objectives," "implementation," and "self-defense." Although the book is partly a study of the causes of the Bosnian events, its strengths lie in the author's analysis of the political and military context surrounding them.

Cigar examines historical influences within the former Yugoslavia that created a climate conducive to genocide. He places the blame for ethnic cleansing squarely on the Bosnian Serbs, but he strongly condemns the international community for its refusal to intervene. He suggests that the leaders of the world's most powerful nations failed to create a moral consensus among themselves, and that their lack of action was tantamount to a decision to let the killings take place. Cigar shows that the world reaction to Bosnian ethnic cleansing was a political and military failure. Most of all, he proposes, the inaction of the world's governments was morally wrong.

Genocide In Bosnia The Policy Of Ethnic Cleansing:

Genocide in Bosnia Norman L. Cigar, 1995 In this compelling and thorough study Norman Cigar sets out to prove that genocide in Bosnia Herzegovina is not simply the unintentional result of civil war or the unfortunate by product of rabid nationalism Genocide is he contends the planned and direct consequence of conscious policy decisions made by the Serbian establishment in Serbia and Bosnia Herzegovina Its policies were carried out in a deliberate and systematic manner as part of a broader strategy intended to achieve a defined political objective the creation of an expanded ethnically pure Greater Serbia Using testimony from congressional hearings policy statements interviews and reports from the western and local media the author describes a sinister policy of victimization that escalated from vilification to threats then expulsion torture and killing Cigar also takes the international community to task for its reluctance to act decisively and effectively Genocide in Bosnia provides a detailed account of the historical events actions and practices that led to and legitimated genocide in Bosnia Herzegovina It focuses attention not only on the horror of ethnic cleansing but on the calculated strategy that allowed it to happen Cigar s book is important reading for anyone interested in the inherent violence of overzealous nationalism from Rwanda to Afghanistan and anywhere else

The Responsibility to Protect in Libya and Syria Yasmine Nahlawi, 2019-11-14 This book offers a novel and contemporary examination of the responsibility to protect R2P doctrine from an international legal perspective and analyses how the doctrine was applied within the Libyan and Syrian conflicts as two recent and highly significant R2P cases The book dissects each of R2P's three component pillars to examine their international legal underpinnings drawing upon diverse legal frameworks including the laws of the UN laws of international organisations human rights law humanitarian law criminal law environmental law and laws of State responsibility to extract conclusions regarding existing and emerging host and third State obligations to prevent and react to mass atrocity crimes It uses this legal grounding to critically examine specific aspects of the Libyan and Syrian R2P cases engaging with some of the more traditional debates surrounding R2P's application most notably those that pertain to the use of force or lack thereof but also exploring some of the less researched non military methods that were or could have been employed by States and international organisations to uphold the doctrine Such an analysis captures the diversity in the means and actors through which R2P can be implemented and allows for the extraction of more nuanced conclusions regarding the doctrine's strengths and limitations gaps in enforceability levels of State support and future trajectory The book will be of interest to scholars and students in the field of international law and human rights law

Justice in a Time of War Pierre Hazan, 2004 Justice in a Time of War is a translation from the French of the first complete behind the scenes story of the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia from its proposal by Balkan journalist Mirko Klarin through recent developments in the first trial of its ultimate quarry Slobodan Milosevic It is also a meditation on the conflicting intersection of law and politics in achieving justice and peace Jacket

The Yugoslav Crisis in International Law University of Cambridge. Research Centre for International Law, 1997-07-28 This book brings together for the first time a comprehensive documentary record of the crisis in the former Yugoslavia tracing the responses both of the United Nations and regional organisations Many of the documents reproduced are otherwise inaccessible This volume contains all relevant UN Security Council Resolutions and

Presidential Statements together with the records of the debates leading to their adoption reports on the crisis compiled by the UN Secretary General and extracts from decisions and debates in the UN General Assembly The efforts of regional organisations are reflected in general documents from amongst others the EC NATO the Western European Union the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe the Organisation of the Islamic Conference and the Non Aligned Movement

Indigenous Peoples as Subjects of International Law Irene Watson, 2017-07-14 For more than 500 years Indigenous laws have been disregarded Many appeals for their recognition under international law have been made but have thus far failed mainly because international law was itself shaped by colonialism How this volume asks might international law be reconstructed so that it is liberated from its colonial origins With contributions from critical legal theory international law politics philosophy and Indigenous history this volume pursues a cross disciplinary analysis of the international legal exclusion of Indigenous Peoples and of its relationship to global injustice Beyond the issue of Indigenous Peoples rights however this analysis is set within the broader context of sustainability arguing that Indigenous laws philosophy and knowledge are not only legally valid but offer an essential approach to questions of ecological justice and the co existence of all life on earth

Dynamic Interpretation in International Criminal Law Alexander Grabert, 2015-06-17 The interpretive process in International Criminal Law ICL is characterised by a conflict between the requirements for stability and change On the one hand ICL provides for the criminal responsibility of individuals Thus there is an enhanced requirement for legal certainty According to the principle of legality the addressee of the law must be able to identify the prohibited conduct in advance in order to be able to avoid criminal sanctions On the other hand however ICL forms part of international law Hence it derives to some extent from international treaties Whereas the forms of criminal conduct are continuously evolving treaties are rather static instruments they cannot be adapted to a changing environment within a short period of time Thus reality is developing at a pace that the law cannot always match In consequence there is a certain need to account for evolving circumstances within the framework of interpretation The aim of this book is to review the consequences of this conflict for the interpretation of ICL How can the conflicting requirements be brought into balance Can substantive rules of ICL be interpreted in a dynamic fashion to the detriment of the accused without violating the principle of legality How do international criminal courts and tribunals deal with this issue
