Gregory, Alistair Geddes, 2024-06-06 The application of Geographic Information Systems GIS to issues in history is among the most exciting developments in both digital and spatial humanities Describing a wide variety of applications the essays in this volume highlight the methodological and substantive implications of a spatial approach to history They illustrate how the use of GIS is changing our understanding of the geographies of the past and has become the basis for new ways to study history Contributors focus on current developments in the use of historical sources and explore the insights gained by applying GIS to develop historiography Toward Spatial Humanities is a compelling demonstration of how GIS can contribute to our historical understanding What is Environmental History? Johnson Donald Hughes, 2006-12-08 What is environmental history It is a kind of history that seeks understanding of human beings as they have lived worked and thought in relationship to the rest of nature through the changes brought by time In this seminal student textbook J. Storms Over the Balkans During the Second World War Alfred J. Rieber, 2022 A new interpretation of the history of the Balkans during the Second World War exploring the tangled political rivalries cultural clashes and armed conflicts among the great powers personified by Mussolini Hitler Stalin Churchill and Tito and the indigenous people competing for influence and domination Space, Images, and Art Perception in Napoleonic Paris Camilla Murgia, 2025-10-01 This book examines the impact of space on the perception of art and visual culture in early nineteenth century Paris It turns its attention to the way in which space determines the understanding and the development of visual culture The abundance of images their status and their employment alike offer a means to grasp the extent of the development of an approach to art which further involved the spectator Space is here conceived as a multifaceted entity spanning architectural scholarly artistic and visual dimensions These various aspects offer means to consider the way in which images work and are consumed and the individual experience they represent Space works as a link and a connecting tool between different intellectual and visual categories and this study examines how this interaction applies to works of art as well as everyday objects The Place with No Edge Adam Mandelman,2020-04-08 In The Place with No Edge Adam Mandelman follows three centuries of human efforts to inhabit and control the lower Mississippi River delta the vast watery flatlands spreading across much of southern Louisiana He finds that people s use of technology to tame unruly nature in the region has produced interdependence with rather than independence from the environment Created over millennia by deposits of silt and sand the Mississippi River delta is one of the most dynamic landscapes in North America From the eighteenth century establishment of the first French fort below New Orleans to the creation of Louisiana s Coastal Master Plan in the 2000s people have attempted to harness and master this landscape through technology Mandelman examines six specific interventions employed in the delta over time levees rice flumes pullboats geophysical surveys dredgers and petroleum cracking He demonstrates that even as people seemed to gain control over the environment they grew more deeply intertwined with and vulnerable to it The greatest folly Mandelman argues is to believe that technology affords mastery Environmental catastrophes of coastal land loss and petrochemical pollution may appear to be disconnected but both emerged from the same fantasy of harnessing nature to technology Similarly the levee system s failures and the subsequent deluge after Hurricane Katrina owe as much to centuries of human entanglement with the delta as to global warming s rising seas and strengthening storms The Place with No Edge advocates for a deeper understanding of humans relationship with nature It provides compelling evidence that altering the environment whether to make it habitable profitable or navigable inevitably brings a response sometimes with unanticipated consequences Mandelman encourages a mindfulness of the ways that our inventions engage with nature and a willingness to intervene in responsible respectful ways Space, Place and Scale in the Study of Education Lorraine Symaco,Colin Brock,2017-10-02 The term space is inherently geographical Educational provision and activity takes place within spaces ranging from a room at home or in a school to a campus to an administrative area which could be a state within a country a whole country or a group of countries Such spaces are known as geographical surfaces Within these spaces the process of learning and teaching takes place at particular points that are often nodes in a network which may be formal such as a group of schools or universities or non formal such as in cyberspace Understanding what goes on depends on the scale at which it is observed ranging from individuals to global outreach Altogether this constitutes the geography of educational reality This comprehensive volume includes a theoretical background plus a sample of situations including school level policy and administration inequitable access education hubs and small states It offers an introduction to a relatively neglected member of the family of education foundation disciplines the geography of education This book was originally published as a special issue of Comparative Education History, heritage, and colonialism Kynan Gentry,2015-04-01 History heritage and colonialism explores the politics of history making and interest in preserving the material remnants of the past in late nineteenth and early twentieth century colonial society looking at both indigenous pasts and those of European origin Focusing on New Zealand but also covering the Australian and Canadian experiences it explores how different groups and political interests have sought to harness historical narrative in support of competing visions of identity and memory Considering this within the frames of the local and national as well as of empire the book offers a valuable critique of the study of colonial identity making and cultures of colonisation This book offers important insights for societies negotiating the legacy of a colonial past in a global present and will be of particular value to all those concerned with museum heritage and tourism studies as well as imperial history

Ireland's Heritages Mark McCarthy, 2017-09-29 This book is the first sustained attempt to incorporate critical scholarship and thought at the cutting edge of contemporary geography history and archaeology into the burgeoning field of Irish heritage studies It seeks to illustrate the validity of multiple depictions of the Irish past showing how scrutiny of heritage practices and meanings is so essential for illuminating our understanding of the present Examining Ireland's heritages from a critical perspective that celebrates notions of heterogeneity and uniqueness the distinguished contributors to this book scrutinise the multiplicity of complex relations between heritage history memory commemoration economy and cultural identity within various historical geographical and archaeological contexts Using several examples and case studies this book raises issues not only from a uniquely Irish perspective but also investigates the memorialisation and marketing of the Irish past in overseas locations such as the USA and Australia

The Spatial Humanities David J. Bodenhamer, John Corrigan, Trevor M. Harris, 2010-06-28 Geographic information systems GIS have spurred a renewed interest in the influence of geographical space on human behavior and cultural development Ideally GIS enables humanities scholars to discover relationships of memory artifact and experience that exist in a particular place and across time Although successfully used by other disciplines efforts by humanists to apply GIS and the spatial analytic method in their studies have been limited and halting The Spatial Humanities aims to re-orient and perhaps revolutionize humanities scholarship by critically engaging the technology and specifically directing it to the subject matter of the humanities To this end the contributors explore the potential of spatial methods such as text-based geographical analysis multimedia GIS animated maps deep contingency deep mapping and the geo-spatial semantic web

GeoHumanities Michael Dear, Jim Ketchum, Sarah Luria, Doug Richardson, 2011-04-14 In the past decade there has been a convergence of transdisciplinary thought characterized by geography's engagement with the humanities and the humanities integration of place and the tools of geography into its studies GeoHumanities maps this emerging intellectual terrain with thirty cutting-edge contributions from internationally renowned scholars architects artists activists and scientists This book explores the humanities rapidly expanding engagement with geography and the multi-methodological inquiries that analyze the meanings of place and then reconstructs those meanings to provoke new knowledge as well as the possibility of altered political practices It is no coincidence that the geohumanities are forcefully emerging at a time of immense intellectual and social change This book focuses on a range of topics to address urgent contemporary imperatives such as the link between creativity and place altered practices of spatial literacy the increasing complexity of visual representation in art culture and science and the ubiquitous presence of geospatial technologies in the Information Age GeoHumanities is essential reading for students wishing to understand the intellectual trends and forces driving scholarship and research at the intersections of geography and the humanities disciplines These trends hold far reaching implications for future work in these disciplines and for understanding the changes gripping our societies and our globalizing world

Geographical Knowledge and Imperial Culture in the Early Modern Ottoman Empire Pinar Emiralioğlu, 2016-12-05 Exploring the reasons for a flurry of geographical works in the Ottoman Empire in the sixteenth century this study analyzes how cartographers travellers astrologers historians and naval captains promoted their vision of the world and the centrality of the Ottoman Empire in it It proposes a new case study for the interconnections among empires in the period demonstrating how the Ottoman Empire shared political cultural economic and even religious conceptual frameworks with contemporary and previous world empires

Geography and History, 1993

"Dividing the Realm in Order to Govern" Ruth Mostern, 2020-10-26 States are inherently and fundamentally geographical Sovereignty is based on control of territory This book uses Song China to explain how a pre industrial regime organized itself spatially in order to exercise authority On more than a thousand occasions the Song court founded abolished promoted demoted and reordered jurisdictions in an attempt to maximize the effectiveness of limited resources in a climate of shifting priorities to placate competing constituencies and to address military and economic crises Spatial transformations in the Song field administration changed the geography of commerce taxation revenue accumulation warfare foreign relations and social organization and even determined the terms of debates about imperial power The chronology of tenth century imperial consolidation eleventh century political reform and twelfth century localism traced in this book is a familiar one But by detailing the relationship between the court and local administration this book complicates the received paradigm of Song centralization and decentralization Song frontier policies formed a coherent imperial approach to administering peripheral regions with inaccessible resources and limited infrastructure And the well known events of the Song wars and reforms were often responses to long term spatial and demographic change
