The Oxford History of the Novel in English Simon Gikandi, 2016-09-05 Why did the novel take such a long time to emerge in the colonial world And what cultural work did it come to perform in societies where subjects were not free and modes of social organization diverged from the European cultural centers where the novel gained its form and audience Answering these questions and more Volume 11 The Novel in Africa and the Caribbean since 1950 explores the institutions of cultural production that exerted influence in late colonialism from missionary schools and metropolitan publishers to universities and small presses How these structures provoke and respond to the literary trends and social peculiarities of Africa and the Caribbean impacts not only the writing and reading of novels in those regions but also has a transformative effect on the novel as a global phenomenon Together the volume s 32 contributing experts tell a story about the close relationship between the novel and the project of decolonization and explore the multiple ways in which novels enable readers to imagine communities beyond their own and thus made this form of literature a compelling catalyst for cultural transformation. The authors show that even as the novel grows in Africa and the Caribbean as a mark of the elites' mastery of European form, it becomes the essential instrument for critiquing colonialism and for articulating the new horizons of cultural nationalism. Within this historical context, the volume examines works by authors such as Chinua Achebe, Nadine Gordimer, George Lamming, Jamaica Kincaid, V. S. Naipaul, Zoe Wicomb, J. M. Coetzee, and many others.

Afropolitan Literature as World Literature James Hodapp, 2020-01-23 African literature has never been more visible than it is today. Whereas Chinua Achebe, Wole Soyinka, and Ngugi wa Thiong'o defined a golden generation of African writers in the 20th century, a new generation of Afropolitan writers including Chimamanda Adichie, Teju Cole, Taiye Selasi, and NoViolet Bulawayo have taken the world by storm by snatching up prestigious awards and selling millions of copies of their works. But what is the new, increasingly fashionable and marketable Afropolitan vision of Africa's place in the world that they offer? How does it differ from that of previous generations? Why do some dissent? Afropolitanism refuses to reinforce images of Africa in world media as merely poor, war-torn, diseased, and constantly falling into chaos. By complicating the image of Africa as a hapless victim, Afropolitanism focuses on the wide-ranging influence Africa has on the world. However, some have characterized this kind of writing as light, populist fare that panders to Western audiences. Afropolitan Literature as World Literature examines the controversy surrounding Afropolitan literature in light of the unprecedented circulation of culture made possible by globalization and ultimately argues for expanding its geographic and temporal boundaries.

Postcolonial Ecologies Elizabeth DeLoughrey, George B. Handley, 2011-04-20 The first edited collection to bring ecocritical studies into a necessary dialogue with postcolonial literature, this volume offers rich and suggestive ways to explore the relationship between humans and nature around the globe, drawing from texts from Africa and the Caribbean as well as the Pacific Islands and South Asia. Turning to contemporary works by both well- and little-known postcolonial writers, the diverse contributions highlight the literary imagination as crucial to representing what Édouard Glissant calls the aesthetics of the earth. The essays are organized around a group of thematic concerns that engage culture and cultivation, arboriculture, and deforestation; the lives of animals; and the relationship between the military and the tourist industry. With chapters that address works by J. M. Coetzee, Kiran Desai, Derek Walcott, Alejo Carpentier, Zakes Mda, and many others, Postcolonial Ecologies makes a remarkable contribution to rethinking the role of the humanities in addressing global environmental issues.

African Literature and US Empire Katherine Hallemeier, 2024-05-31 Postcolonialism has long been associated with post-nationalism. Yet the persistence of nation-oriented literatures from within the African postcolony and its diasporas registers how dreams of national becoming endure. In this fascinating new study, Hallemeier brings together African literary studies, affect studies, and US empire studies to challenge chronologies that chart a growing disillusionment.

with the postcolonial nation and national development across the twentieth and twenty first centuries The Nigerian and South African writings in African Literature and US Empire while often attuned to the trans and extra national repeatedly scrutinise why visions of national exceptionalism signified by a pan African Nigeria and new South Africa remain stubbornly affecting despite decades of disillusionment with national governments beholden to a neocolonial global order In these fictions optimistic forms of nationalism cannot be reduced to easily critiqued state sanctioned discourses of renewal and development They are also circulated through experiences of embodied need quotidian aspiration and transnational pan African relationship

Ecoambiguity, Community, and Development Scott Slovic, Swarnalatha Rangarajan, Vidya Sarveswaran, 2014-02-19 Ecoambiguity Community and Development takes stock of cultural and environmental contexts in many different regions of the world by exploring literature and film Artists and scholars working in the social ecology environmental justice and postcolonial arenas have long recognized that as soon as we tug on a thread of ecodegradation we generally find it linked to some form of cultural oppression The reverse is also often true In the spirit of postcolonial ecocriticism the studies collected by Scott Slovic R Swarnalatha and Vidya Sarveswaran emphasize the impossibility of disentangling environmental and cultural problems While not all the authors explicitly invoke Karen Thornber's term ecoambiguity or the concepts and terminology of postcolonial ecocriticism their articles frequently bring to light various ironies For example the fact that Ukrainian environmental experience in the twenty first century is defined by one of the world's most infamous industrial disasters the Chernobyl nuclear accident of 1986 yet Ukrainian culture like many throughout the world actually cherishes a profound even animistic attachment to the wonders of nature The repetition of this and other paradoxes in human cultural responses to the more than human world reinforces our sense of the congruities and idiosyncrasies of human culture Every human culture regardless of its condition of economic and industrial development has produced its own version of environmental literature and art but the nuances of this work reflect that culture s precise social and geophysical circumstances In various ways these stories of community and development from across the planet converge and diverge as told and explained by distinguished scholars many of whom come from the cultures represented in these articles

Cheeky Fictions ,2005-01-01 Humour is a key feature laughter a central element disrespect a vital textual strategy of postcolonial transcultural practice Devices such as irony parody and subversion

can be subsumed under an interventionist stance and have accordingly received some critical attention. But literary and cultural postcolonial criticism has been marked by a restraint verging on the pious towards the wider significance and functions of laughter. This collection transcends such orthodoxies; laughter can constitute an intervention but it can also function otherwise. The essays collected here take an interest in the strategic use of what can loosely be termed laughter in all its manifestations. Examining postcolonial transcultural practice from a range of disciplinary and methodological perspectives, this study seeks to analyse laughter and the postcolonial in their complexity. For the first time then, this collection gathers a group of international specialists in postcolonial transcultural studies to analyse the functions of laughter, the comic and humour in a wide range of cultural texts. Contributors work on texts from Africa, Asia, Australia, North America, the Caribbean and Britain, reading work by authors such as Zakes Mda, Timothy Mo, VS Naipaul and Zadie Smith. This interdisciplinary collection is a contribution to both postcolonial studies and humour theory. Local Natures, Global Responsibilities, 2010-01-01

In the New Literatures in English, nature has long been a paramount issue; the environmental devastation caused by colonialism has left its legacy with particularly disastrous consequences for the most vulnerable parts of the world. At the same time, social and cultural transformations have altered representations of nature in postcolonial cultures and literatures. It is this shift of emphasis towards the ecological that is addressed by this volume. A fast-expanding field, ecocriticism covers a wide range of theories and areas of interest, particularly the relationship between literature and other texts and the environment. Rather than adopting a rigid agenda, the interpretations presented involve ecocritical perspectives that can be applied most fruitfully to literary and non-literary texts. Some are more general, holistic approaches; literature and other cultural forms are a living organism, part of an intellectual ecosystem implemented and sustained by the interactions between the natural world, both human and non-human, and its cultural representations. Nature itself is a new interpretative category in line with other paradigms such as race, class, gender and identity. A wide range of genres are covered, from novels or films in which nature features as the main topic or protagonist to those with an ecocritical agenda as in dystopian literature. Other concerns are nature as a cultural construct, gendered natures and the city/country dichotomy. The texts treated challenge traditional Western dualisms: human/animal, man/nature, woman/man. While such global phenomena as media, old or new tourism and catastrophes permeate many of these texts, there is also a dual focus on nature as the inexplicable, elusive Other and the need for human agency and global responsibility. EnvironMentality. Roman Bartosch, 2013

This book addresses the role and potential of literature in the process of contesting and re-evaluating concepts of nature and animality, describing one's individual environment as the starting point for such negotiations. It employs the notion of the literary event to discuss the specific literary quality of verbal art, conceptualised as EnvironMentality. EnvironMentality is grounded on the understanding that fiction does not explain or second scientific and philosophical notions but that it poses a fundamental challenge to any form of knowledge manifesting in processes.

determined by the human capacity to think beyond a given hermeneutic situation Bartosch foregrounds the dialectics of understanding the other by means of literary interpretation in ecocritical readings of novels by Amitav Ghosh Zakes Mda Yann Martel Margaret Atwood and J M Coetzee arguing that EnvironMentality helps us as readers of fiction to learn from the books we read that which can only be learned by means of reading to think like a mountain Aldo Leopold and to know what it is like to be a bat Thomas Nagel Ecoambiguity Karen Thornber,2012-03-02 Delving into the complex contradictory relationships between humans and the environment in Asian literatures
