One 200 year old folk tale 30 teachers and 1 000 students Ride along with literacy guru David Booth as he takes the same story to a wide variety of classrooms from kindergarten all the way through grade 12 and be amazed by the learning generated David argues that it takes two to read a book He reasons that sharing responses and bouncing ideas off others guides students to deeper thinking and challenges them to reconsider their views and increase their understanding This intriguing book also shows teachers how to help students discover the world outside the text the origins connections place values and the different perceptions that readers have. It illustrates ways to transpose that original text into other forms that let students look at the text with different eyes to ponder what might have been to challenge what they read and to add their new learning to the construct of the world. Throughout the book, authentic student samples and actual transcripts present students experiencing the featured story in a multitude of ways from poems and retellings to visuals and arts to conversation and blogs that will explode your definitions of comprehension, response and engagement and have you looking at classroom literacy in a whole new way.

All She Ever Wanted Rosalind Noonan, 2012-12-24. Original.

Urban Obsessions, Urban Fears John Roger Kurtz, 1998. Kurtz's analysis of the development of the Kenyan novel in English emphasizes the historical contingencies affecting the production of literature in Kenya and how succeeding generations have drawn from and expanded the thematic repertoire established by the first generation of works in the 1960s. He explores the relationship between the novel and the city and how obsessions and fears about the urbanization have been expressed and represented through different generations of Kenyan writers. Kurtz has also put together the first annotated bibliography of all the anglophone Kenyan novels that have appeared since Ngugi wa Thiong'o wrote Weep Not Child. Ngugi's Weep Not Child made an immediate impact on its publication in 1964. Since then, hundreds of novels by Kenyans have been published. This is a comprehensive introduction to the postcolonial novel in English. Three broad areas are identified: the first generation of the sixties, the golden age of the seventies and the years after Kenyatta in the 80s and 90s. A unifying feature is an uneasy but marked emphasis on the city, particularly Nairobi. The city is used by novelists as both the site and the symbol for a range of obsessions and fears about postcolonial society. There is particular emphasis on the changing ways in which the city has been portrayed since Ngugi's first novel: the relation of popular literature to the city, the portrayal of women in the city and the special status of Meja Mwangi's urban novels.
