Hearth Home A History Of Material Culture:

Hearth & Home Norman John Greville Pounds,1989      The Making of Home Judith Flanders,2015-09-08 The idea that home is a special place a separate place a place where we can be our true selves is so obvious to us today that we barely pause to think about it But as Judith Flanders shows in her best and most ambitious work to date home is a relatively new idea In The Making of Home Flanders traces the evolution of the house from the sixteenth to the early twentieth century across northern Europe and America showing how the homes we know today bear only a faint resemblance to homes though history What turned a house into the concept of home Why did northwestern Europe a politically unimportant sociologically underdeveloped region of the world suddenly become the powerhouse of the Industrial Revolution the capitalist crucible that created modernity While investigating these important questions Flanders uncovers the fascinating development of ordinary household items from cutlery chairs and curtains to the fitted kitchen plumbing and windows while also dismantling many domestic myths In this prodigiously researched and engagingly written book Flanders brilliantly and elegantly draws together the threads of religion history economics technology and the arts to show not merely what happened but why it happened how we ended up in a world where we can all say like Dorothy in Oz There s no place like home      History After Hobsbawm John Arnold,Matthew Hilton,Jan Rüger,2018 What does it mean and what might it yet come to mean to write history in the twenty first century History After Hobsbawm brings together leading historians from across the globe to ask what being an historian should mean in their particular fields of study Taking their cue from one of the previous century s greatest historians Eric Hobsbawm and his interests across many periods and places the essays approach their subjects with an underlying sense of what role an historian might seek to play and attempt to help twenty first century society understand how we got here They present new work in their sub fields but also point to how their specialisms are developing how they might further grow in the future and how different areas of focus might speak to the larger challenges of history both for the discipline itself and for its relationship to other fields of academic inquiry Like Hobsbawm the authors in this collection know that history matters They speak to both the past and the present and in so doing introduce some of the most exciting new lines of research in a broad array of subjects from the medieval period to the present      Material Culture Kenneth L. Ames,1985      Consumption and the World of Goods John Brewer,Roy Porter,2013-06-17 The study of past society in terms of what it consumes rather than what it produces is relatively speaking a new development The focus on consumption changes the whole emphasis and structure of historical enquiry While human beings usually work within a single trade or industry as producers as say farmers or industrial workers as consumers they are active in many different markets or networks And while history written from a production viewpoint has by chance or design largely been centred on the work of men consumption history helps to restore women o the mainstream The history of consumption demands a wide range of skills It calls upon the methods and techniques of many other disciplines including archaeology sociology social and economic history anthropology and art criticism But it is not simply a melting pot of techniques and skills brought to bear on a past epoch Its objectives amount to a new description of a past culture in its totality as perceived through its patterns of consumption in goods and services Consumption and the World of Goods is the first of three volumes to examine history from this perspective and is a unique collaboration between twenty six leading subject specialists from Europe and North America The outcome is a new interpretation of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries one that shapes a new historical landscape based on the consumption of goods and services

The Sacred Home in Renaissance Italy Abigail Brundin, Deborah Howard, Mary Laven, 2018-07-12 The Sacred Home in Renaissance Italy explores the rich devotional life of the Italian household between 1450 and 1600 Rejecting the enduring stereotype of the Renaissance as a secular age this interdisciplinary study reveals the home to have been an important site of spiritual revitalization Books buildings objects spaces images and archival sources are scrutinized to cast new light on the many ways in which religion infused daily life within the household Acts of devotion from routine prayers to extraordinary religious experiences such as miracles and visions frequently took place at home amid the joys and trials of domestic life from childbirth and marriage to sickness and death Breaking free from the usual focus on Venice Florence and Rome The Sacred Home investigates practices of piety across the Italian peninsula with particular attention paid to the city of Naples the Marche and the Venetian mainland It also looks beyond the elite to consider artisanal and lower status households and reveals gender and age as factors that powerfully conditioned religious experience Recovering a host of lost voices and compelling narratives at the intersection between the divine and the everyday The Sacred Home offers unprecedented glimpses through the keyhole into the spiritual lives of Renaissance Italians

The Origins of the Consumer Revolution in England Joanne Sear, Ken Sneath, 2020-01-17 The Origins of the Consumer Revolution in England explores the rise of consumerism from the end of the medieval period through to the beginning of the nineteenth century The book takes a detailed look at when the consumer revolution began tracing its evolution from the years following the Black Death through to the nineteenth century In doing so it also considers which social classes were included and how different areas of the country were affected at different times examining the significant role that location played in the development of consumption This new study is based upon the largest database of English probate records yet assembled which has been used in conjunction with a range of other sources to offer a broad and detailed chronological approach Filling in the gaps within previous research it examines changing patterns in relation to food and drink clothing household furnishings and religion focussing on the goods themselves to illuminate items in common ownership rather than those owned only by the elite Using a combination of qualitative and quantitative evidence to explore the development of consumption The Origins of the Consumer Revolution in England will be of great use to scholars and students of late medieval and early modern economic and social history with an interest in the development of consumerism in England

Material History Review ,2001      Ideal homes, 1918-39 Deborah Sugg Ryan,2018-03-06 This book explores the aspirations and tastes of new suburban communities in interwar England for domestic architecture and design that was both modern and nostalgic in a period where homeownership became the norm It investigates the ways in which new suburban class and gender identities were forged through the architecture design and decoration of the home in choices such as ebony elephants placed on mantelpieces and modern Easiwork dressers in kitchens Ultimately it argues that a specifically suburban modernism emerged which looked backwards to the past whilst looking forward to the future Thus the inter war ideal home was both a retreat from the outside world and a site of change and experimentation The book also examines how the interwar home is lived in today It will appeal to academics and students in design social and cultural history as well as a wider readership curious about interwar homes      American Home Life, 1880-1930 Jessica H. Foy,2024-07-31 In the pivotal decades around the turn of the century American domestic life underwent dramatic alteration From backstairs to front stairs spaces and the activities within them were radically affected by shifts in the larger social and material environments This volume while taking account of architecture and decoration moves us beyond the study of buildings to the study of behaviors particularly the behaviors of those who peopled the middle class single family detached American home between 1880 and 1930 The book s contributors study transformations in services such as home utilities of power heat light water and waste removal in servicing for example the impact of home appliances such as gas and electric ranges washing machines and refrigerators and in serving changes in domestic servants duties hours of work racial and ethnic backgrounds In blending intellectual and home history these essays both examine and exemplify the perennial American enthusiasm for as well as anxiety about the meaning of modernity      Indian Response to Shakespeare Ed.
