Hearth Wild Post Cardiac Banff:

Death Drive Through Gaia Paris Charles Noble, 2007 In this collection of poetry Charles Noble further reins in an already tight form haiku only to let loose a logopoeic poetry He presents poems of extraordinary rigour and riddles of wit that are solved by lifetime insights a dialectical poetry that still observes a phenomenological toehold but transcends the limits of locality in recognizing the curled up but everywhere world of media and markets la Fredric Jameson And yet these haikus go straight to the shock of the naive They turn to a middle ground in Aristotle s sense of difficult target They point to human acts human reactions and enact themselves a meta linguistic wrestling at one with the quarreling couple in the bar hanging on each other s words and insistent with What do you mean by a simple word But they are also implicated in what he calls the death drive not death wish which arcs freely over a human life span think architecture and which more radically in the pleated crossword make s good a bit of bad infinity no expenses save for that toehold earth as he would have it Hearth

Wild Charles Noble, 2001 Charles Noble s counter novel is a minefield and motherlode of jest memory and speculation Noble s exploration of the literary and topographical culture of Banff past and present yields a narrative filled with wit style and playful exuberance Mountains Figured and Disfigured in the English-Speaking World Françoise

Besson, 2020-06-01 The essays in this book written by poets novelists mountain climbers and academics from all over the world evoke the representation of mountains in the English speaking world as artists writers philosophers or mountain climbers have represented them from the sixteenth to the twenty first centuries From the Alps to the Pyrenees from Mount Fuji to Mount Shasta from the Himalayas to the Scottish Highlands from Ikere in Nigeria to Devil s Tower in the United States from Uluru in Australia to the most northern mountain of the Arctic the shapes of the world speak the same language and tell the world its own story This interdisciplinary book weaving together mountaineering literature philosophy painting cinema ecology history palaeontology geography geopolitics toponymy law religion and myth invites people to an innovative reading of mountains it reveals the close relationship existing between the shapes of the world and all forms of writing and at the same time it shows how the representations of the imagination may be instrumental in protecting the natural world The story told by the landscape inscribes a broken line in the shapes of the world tearing the landscape like a fragile page whenever historical and political events wars mining or deforestation leave scars in the landscape but writers and artists representations of mountains constitute a path to awareness as they are not only a painting of beauty but an image of our link to nature and a warning as well For centuries the image of the mountain has conveyed a symbolism telling the story of human thought and this book shows to what extent literature and art play an essential part in our awareness of nature

Charles Noble,2003 Charles Noble s long poem playfully connects autobiography narrative philosophy history and satire and experiments with language and structure in a way that pushes the limits of contemporary poetry Noble leaves no leaf unturned as he touches on issues related to contemporary Western society including mass media culture gender politics postindustrial technology and the politics of postmodern culture
