Georgetown Houses of the Federal Period Deering Davis, 1964 Georgetown Houses of the Federal Period, Washington, D.C., 1781-1830 Deering Davis, Ralph Cole Hall, 1944 Historic Capital Cameron Logan, 2017-12-19

Washington D C has long been known as a frustrating and sometimes confusing city for its residents to call home The monumental core of federal office buildings museums and the National Mall dominates the city s surrounding neighborhoods and urban fabric For much of the postwar era Washingtonians battled to make the city their own fighting the federal government over the basic question of home rule the right of the city s residents to govern their local affairs In Historic Capital urban historian Cameron Logan examines how the historic preservation movement played an integral role in Washingtonians claiming the city as their own Going back to the earliest days of the local historic preservation movement in the 1920s Logan shows how Washington D C s historic buildings and neighborhoods have been a site of contestation between local interests and the expansion of the federal government s footprint He carefully analyzes the long history of fights over the right to name and define historic districts in Georgetown Dupont Circle and Capitol Hill and documents a series of high profile conflicts surrounding the fate of Lafayette Square Rhodes Tavern and Capitol Park SW before discussing D C today Diving deep into the racial fault lines of D C Historic Capital also explores how the historic preservation movement affected poor and African American residents in Anacostia and the U Street and Shaw neighborhoods and changed the social and cultural fabric of the nation s capital Broadening his inquiry to the United States as a whole Logan ultimately makes the provocative and compelling case that historic preservation has had as great an impact on the physical fabric of U S cities as any other private or public sector initiative in the twentieth century Washington Architecture, 1791-1861 Daniel Drake Reiff, 1972 Re-creating the American Past Richard Guy Wilson, Shaun Eyring, Kenny Marotta, 2006 Although individually and collectively Americans have many histories the dominant view of our national past focuses on the colonial era The reasons for this are many and complex touching on stories of the country s origins and of the founding fathers the privileged position in history granted the thirteen original colonies and the ways in which the nation has adjusted to change and modernity But no matter the cause the result is obvious images and forms derived from and related to America s colonial past are the single most popular form of cultural expression Often conceived solely in architectural terms from the red brick and white trimmed buildings that recall eighteenth century James River estates to the clapboarded saltboxes that recall early New England Colonial Revival is in fact better understood as a process of remembering In Re-creating the American Past architectural historian Richard Guy Wilson and a host of other scholars examine how and why Colonial Revival has persisted in modern times The volume contains essays that explore Colonial Revival expressions in architecture landscape architecture historic preservation decorative arts and painting and sculpture as well as the social intellectual and cultural background of the phenomena Based on the University of Virginia s landmark 2000 conference The Colonial Revival in America Re creating the American Past is a comprehensive and handsome volume that recovers the origins characteristics diversity and significance of the Colonial Revival situating it within the broader history of American design culture and society
