Samson Raphael Hirsch's Religious Universalism and the German-Jewish Quest for Emancipation Moshe Y. Miller,2024-02-20 In Samson Raphael Hirsch s Religious Universalism and the German Jewish Quest for Emancipation Moshe Miller argues that nineteenth century German Jews of all persuasions actively sought acceptance within German society and aspired to achieve full emancipation from the many legal strictures on their status as citizens and residents But where non Orthodox Jews sought a large measure of cultural assimilation Orthodox Jews were content with more delimited acculturation However they were no less enthusiastic about achieving emancipation and acceptance in German society There was one issue though which was seen by non Jewish critics of emancipation as a barrier to granting civic rights to Jews namely the alleged tribalism of the Jewish ethic and the supposedly Orthodox notion of Jews as the Chosen People These charges could not go unanswered and in the writings of Rabbi Samson Raphael Hirsch 1808 1888 a leading thinker of the Orthodox camp they did not Hirsch stressed the universalism of the Jewish ethic and the humanistic concern for the welfare of all mankind which he believed was one of the core teachings of Judaism His colleagues in the German Orthodox rabbinate largely concurred with Hirsch s assessment This account places Hirsch s views in their historical context and provides a detailed account of his attitude toward non Jews and the Christianity practiced by the vast majority of nineteenth century Europeans German Migrant Historians in North America Karen Hagemann, Konrad H. Jarausch, 2024-11-01 The migration experiences career paths and scholarship of historians born in Germany who started emigrating to North America in the 1950s have had a unique impact on the transatlantic practice of Central European History German Migrant Historians in North America analyzes the experiences of this postwar group of scholars and asks what informed their education and career choices and what motivated them to emigrate to North America The contributors reflect on how these migration experiences informed their own research and teaching and particularly discuss the more general development of the transatlantic exchange between German and American historians in the scholarship on Modern Central European History The Scholems Jay Howard Geller, 2019-03-15 The evocative and riveting stories of four brothers Gershom the Zionist Werner the Communist Reinhold the nationalist and Erich the liberal weave together in The Scholems a biography of an eminent middle class Jewish Berlin family and a social history of the Jews in Germany in the decades leading up to World War II Across four generations Jay Howard Geller illuminates the transformation of traditional Jews into modern German citizens the challenges they faced and the ways that they shaped the German Jewish century beginning with Prussia s emancipation of the Jews in 1812 and ending with exclusion and disenfranchisement under the Nazis Focusing on the renowned philosopher and Kabbalah scholar Gershom Scholem and his family their story beautifully draws out the rise and fall of bourgeois life in the unique subculture that was Jewish Berlin Geller portrays the family within a much larger context of economic advancement the adoption of German culture and debates on Jewish identity struggles for integration into society and varying political choices during the German Empire World War I the Weimar Republic and the Nazi era What Geller discovers and unveils for the reader is a fascinating portal through which to view the experience of the Jewish middle class in Germany Jewish Women's History from Antiquity to the Present Rebecca Lynn Winer, Federica Francesconi, 2021-11-02 This publication is significant within the field of Jewish studies and beyond the essays include comparative material and have the potential to reach scholarly audiences in many related fields but are written to be accessible to all with the introductions in every chapter aimed at orienting the enthusiast from outside academia to each time and place
