Education Policy And Society Theoretical Perspectives:

Education, Policy and Society Ben Cosin, Margaret Hales, 1983 Education and Disability in Cross-Cultural Perspective Susan Jeanne Peters, 2013-11-26 A radical departure from previous chronicles of education for people with disabilities this book views special education from a broader perspective Its central thesis is that cultural values and expectations play a dominant role in understanding the structure and function of special education While theories of the social construction of disability have been written about in a growing body of research since the 1960s no attempt has been made to create a cross cultural framework This work offers such a framework Eight chapters written by educators in each country s educational system cover the following nations China Great Britain Hungary Japan Iran Pakistan United States and Zimbabwe Historical discussions in each chapter provide a context for current practice An index and illustrations are also included Teacher Education and the Development of Practical Judgement Ruth Heilbronn, 2011-11-03 Current conceptions of teacher training reflect key issues in professional practices Two prevailing views seem to be in conflict the first is that a teacher ought to be able to act as an autonomous professional trusted to have and apply subject knowledge through the exercise of judgement The second conception views the teacher more as a deliverer of a specific curriculum defined centrally in various government sponsored strategies Much has been written on the development of the reflective practitioner as crucial to the first conception and a strong critique of the audit culture in education has emerged Currently we are at a significant moment in teacher education a lighter touch KS3 curriculum and the instigation of new standards for the award of qualified teacher status QTS The QTS standards are important as they are set to form the basis of standards at all levels of teaching This book examines in depth current education and suggests why and how teachers need to develop and exercise practical knowledge and understanding how standards assessment alone cannot support this teacher formation and what good formation might be The nature of practical knowledge is analysed using some concepts from the work of John Dewey in two theoretical chapters 4 and 5 The current standards based model of teacher training in England is predominantly instrumentalist in its application of technical rationality and unsuited to the formation of teachers However the often invoked concept of the reflective practitioner is underdetermined and a conception of reflection is needed to illuminate its contribution to the development of practical judgement The book s argument applies more widely to the debate between deregulators and professionalisers in other spheres of economic and social activity In asking specific questions about teacher education questions about the aims of education within specific conditions are raised Risk Society and School Educational Policy Grant Rodwell, 2018-09-14 Risk Society and School Educational Policy explores the impact of risk society on policy in the US UK and Australia through both practical and theoretical perspectives The book develops an in depth understanding of risk society itself and guides the reader in applying this knowledge to the problem of how this impacts policy and practice in school education Drawing on work by Ulrich Beck and Anthony Giddens Rodwell explores the development of risk society as a field of interest discussing its history contemporary significance and links with neoliberalism school education and both mainstream and social media He also examines its impact on government policies and the practical implications of how this impacts the educational experiences of children around the globe today A book for policy professionals researchers academics and postgraduate students interested in Education Studies Theory and Policy and International and Comparative Education Risk Society and School Educational Policy is the first international academic monograph published in the field

1966 the book evaluates the performance of each of the policies and examines their consequences in terms of the interplay of global forces and domestic pressures The result of this interplay has been an education landscape that while reflecting globally circulating education discourses markedly differs from those same discourses The book argues that the State in Botswana has appropriated education policy to legitimate itself in times of crisis and that each policy has improved access to general education but collectively have failed to improve its quality making suggestions for how this can be improved in the future As the first book of its kind to delve into education in Botswana from a single authored critical lens the book will be a highly relevant reading for academics researchers and post graduate students of African education comparative education education policy and curriculum studies Education Policy, Theories, and Trends in the 21st Century Izhak
