 73rd National Jewish Book Awards Finalist Charts how changes to Jewish education in the nineteenth century served as a site for the wholesale reimagining of Judaism itself The earliest Jewish Sunday schools were female led growing from one school in Philadelphia established by Rebecca Gratz in 1838 to an entire system that educated vast numbers of Jewish youth across the country These schools were modeled on Christian approaches to religious education and aimed to protect Jewish children from Protestant missionaries But debates soon swirled around the so called sorry state of feminized American Jewish supplemental learning and the schools were taken over by men within one generation of their creation It is commonly assumed that the critiques were accurate and that the early Jewish Sunday school was too feminized saccharine and dependent on Christian paradigms Tracing the development of these schools from their inception through the first decade of the twentieth century this book shows this was not the reality Jewish Sunday Schools argues that the work of the women who shepherded Jewish education in the early Jewish Sunday school had ramifications far outside the classroom Indeed we cannot understand the nineteenth century American Jewish experience and how American Judaism sought to sustain itself in an overwhelmingly Protestant context without looking closely at the development of these precursors to Hebrew School Jewish Sunday Schools provides an in depth portrait of a massively understudied movement that acted as a vital means by which American Jews explored and reconciled their religious and national identities     The Journal of Education Thomas Williams Bicknell,Albert Edward Winship,Anson Wood Belding,1876     The Christian Century ,1927     Female, Jewish, and Educated Harriet Pass Freidenreich,2002-06-21 Female Jewish and Educated presents a collective biography of Jewish women who attended universities in Germany or Austria before the Nazi era To what extent could middle class Jewish women in the early decades of the 20th century combine family and careers What impact did anti Semitism and gender discrimination have in shaping their personal and professional choices Harriet Freidenreich analyzes the lives of 460 Central European Jewish university women focusing on their family backgrounds university experiences professional careers and decisions about marriage and children She evaluates the role of discrimination and anti Semitism in shaping the careers of academics physicians and lawyers in the four decades preceding World War II and assesses the effects of Nazism the Holocaust and emigration on the lives of a younger cohort of women The life stories of the women profiled reveal the courage character and resourcefulness with which they confronted challenges still faced by women today     The Jewish Woman ,1921     History of Education Deirdre Raftery,David Crook,2016-04-08 Specially commissioned to mark the 40th Anniversary of History of Education and containing articles from leading international scholars this is a unique and important volume Over the past forty years scholars working in the history of education have engaged with histories of religion gender science and culture and have developed comparative research on areas such as education race and class This volume demonstrates the richness of such work bringing together some of the leading international scholars writing in the field of history of education today and providing readers with original and theoretically informed research Each author draws on the wealth of material that has appeared in the leading SSCI indexed journal History of Education over the past forty years providing readers with not only incisive studies of major themes but delivering invaluable research bibliographies A must have for university libraries and a must own for historians This book was originally published as a special issue of History of Education
