The work of Judith Butler has been at the forefront of both theorising the subject as a product of power and explicating possibilities for political alliances and action that are available to such subjects Mobilising a range of philosophical resources from Hegel and Foucault to Lacan Levinas Wittig and Arendt her work has held a core concern with the way that the subject is made in terms of sex gender and sexuality and has been an invaluable resource in the development of queer theory and thinking about queer practice Butler s scholarly work has been aimed primarily at a philosophical audience yet her insights into the constitution constraint and agency of subjects are profoundly political and have become invaluable resources in feminist queer anti racist and anti capitalist work Over the last two decades she has been a major influence on research concerned with social justice in education and has changed the ways that classroom practices and relationships can be understood transforming the way we think about both teacher and student This collection brings together some of the most outstanding work in education that has developed and applied Butler s work to empirical questions translating her philosophy for an education audience and providing compelling analyses of the ways that the subjects of education are made how inequalities are produced in the minutiae of practice and how education s subjectivated subjects can act politically The chapters in this book were originally published as articles in Taylor and Francis journals An Introduction to the Study of Education David Matheson,2014-01-14 What is education This core textbook will help students in pursuit of this question by providing a comprehensive gentle and reflective introduction to the initial study of education Updated in line with the latest policies reforms and issues within education this third edition includes full exploration of the historical sociological philosophical and psychological roots of education a focus on all levels of education pre school primary secondary post 16 and lifelong learning the latest controversies and debates within education new material on compulsory education special educational needs and post 16 developments clear insights into the role and background of research within education

Ideology, Curriculum, and the New Sociology of Education Lois Weis,Greg Dimitriadis,Cameron McCarthy,2013-01-11 For more than three decades Michael Apple has sought to uncover and articulate the connections among knowledge teaching and power in education Beginning with Ideology and Curriculum 1979 Apple moved to understand the relationship between and among the economy political and cultural power in society on the one hand and the ways in which education is thought about organized and evaluated on the other This edited collection invites several of the world s leading education scholars to reflect on the relationships between education and power and the continued impact of Apple s scholarship Like Apple s work itself the essays will span a range of disciplines and inequalities emancipatory educational practices and the linkage between the economy and race class and gender formation in relation to schools The Moral Foundations Of Educational

Research Sikes, Pat, Nixon, John, Carr, William, 2003-04-01 This book considers what is distinctive about educational research in comparison with other research in the social sciences As the contributors all agree that education is always an essentially moral enterprise discussion about methodology starts not with the widely endorsed claim that educational research should be useful and relevant but with the attempt to justify and elaborate that claim with reference to its moral foundations Power and Education Antonia Kupfer, 2015-10-05 Education is a crucial influence early in life and is therefore inextricably linked with power This book examines how education can limit opportunities and create social inequality as well as being an empowering force for good Theoretical approaches on the relationship of power and education are discussed as are questions on power and knowledge Teacher Identity and the Struggle for Recognition Patrick M. Jenlink, 2014-04-09 Teacher identity is shaped by recognition or its absence often by misrecognition of others Recognition as a teacher or the strong and complex identification with one's professional culture and community is necessary for a positive sense of self Increasingly teachers are entering educational settings where difference connotes not equal better worse or having more less power over resources Differences between discourses of identity are braided at many points with a discourse of racism both interpersonal and structural Teacher Identity and the Struggle for Recognition examines the nature of identity and recognition as social cultural and political constructs In particular the contributing authors to the book present discussions of the professional work necessary in teacher preparation programs concerned with preparing teachers for the complexities of teaching in schools that mirror an increasingly diverse society Importantly the authors illuminate many of the often problematic structures of schooling and the cultural politics that work to define one's identity drawing into specific relief the nature of the struggle for recognition that all face who choose to enter teaching as a profession Childhood and Postcolonization Gaile S. Cannella, Radhika Viruru, 2003-12-16 To care and educate our young children we must understand and listen to them Childhood and Post Colonization opens the door to the effects of intellectual education and economic colonization of young children throughout the world
