attorney David Marcus's carefully crafted arguments federal district court judge Paul McCormick came to support the plaintiffs on the grounds that the social psychological and pedagogical costs of segregated education were damaging to Mexican American children The school districts claimed that federal courts had no jurisdiction over education but the Ninth Circuit upheld McCormick's decision ruling that the schools' actions violated California law The appeal to the Ninth Circuit was supported by amicus briefs from leading civil liberties organizations including the NAACP which a few years later would adapt the arguments of Mendez in representing the plaintiffs in Brown v. Board of Education effectively weaves together narrative and analysis with personality portraits to create a highly readable and accessible story allowing us to hear the voices of all the protagonists She also presents the issues evenhandedly effectively balancing her presentation of arguments by both the plaintiffs and the schools that sought to continue the segregation of Mexican American students Ultimately Mendez highlights how Mexican Americans took the lead to secure their civil rights and demonstrates how organization, courage and persistence in the Mexican American communities could overcome the racism of the school boards Their inspiring example is particularly timely given the current controversies over immigration and the growing national interest in Latino life
