Rethinking Education and Poverty William G. Tierney, 2015-11-01. How can new ways of thinking about education improve the lives of poor students? In Rethinking Education and Poverty, William G. Tierney brings together scholars from around the world to examine the complex relationship between poverty and education in the twenty-first century. International in scope, this book assembles the best contemporary thinking about how education can mediate class and improve the lives of marginalized individuals. In remarkably nuanced ways, this volume examines education's role as both a possible factor in perpetuating and a tool for alleviating entrenched poverty. Education has long been seen as a way out of poverty. Some critics, however, argue that educational systems mask inequality and perpetuate cycles of poverty and wealth; others believe that the innate resilience or intellectual ability of impoverished students is what allows those individuals to succeed. Rethinking Education and Poverty grapples in turn with the ramifications of each possibility. Throughout these compelling, far-reaching and provocative essays, the contributors seek to better understand how local efforts to reduce poverty through education interact or fail to interact with international assessment efforts. They take a broad historical view, examining social, economic and educational policies from the post-World War II period to the end of the Cold War and beyond. Although there is no simple solution to inequality, this book makes clear that education offers numerous exciting possibilities for progress.

Educational Restructuring in the Context of Globalization and National Policy Holger Daun, 2002. Interculturalization and Teacher Education Cheryl Hunter, Donna Pearson, 2014-12-05. Institutions of higher education are keen to improve teachers' intercultural experiences, communication and understanding, but offer few resources for bringing the research literature to direct application in teacher education programs. This volume addresses that gap by examining what intercultural exchanges in teacher education look like, why they are important and how they can be maintained. The authors examine how socio-cultural beliefs, institutional structures and external accreditation bodies interact in the process of interculturalization, highlighting the incentives and barriers as well as strategies to implement and maintain interculturalization projects. Highlighting pragmatic examples, this book addresses the challenges and benefits of interculturalization that can be applied to teacher education programs from both a theoretical and practitioner perspective.
