Critical Social Issues in American Education H. Svi Shapiro, 2004-09-22 This text reader brings together powerful readings that critically situate issues of education in the context of the major cultural moral political economic ecological and spiritual crises that confront us as a nation and a global community It provides a focus and a conceptual framework for thinking about education in light of these issues Readers are exposed to the thinking of some of the best and most insightful social and educational commentators Critical Social Issues in American Education Democracy and Meaning in a Globalizing World Third Edition is intended to work on two levels First it helps readers to develop an awareness of how education is connected to the wider social structures of cultural political and economic life Second it encourages not only a critical examination of our present social reality but also a serious discussion of alternatives of what a transformed society and educational process might look like The editors goal is to deliberately engage readers in connecting the work of teachers to an ethically committed politically charged pedagogy The assumption on which they base the text is that educators must see their work as inextricably linked to the broader conflicts stresses and crises of the social world it is not otherwise possible to make sense of what is happening educationally What happens in school or as part of the educational experience reflects expresses and mediates profound questions about the direction and nature of the society we inhabit The text is organized thematically into five sections which address respectively social justice and democracy consumerism culture and public education marginality and difference moral and spiritual perspectives on education and globalization and education Each section is preceded by a brief essay that introduces the readings This Third Edition includes many new readings and addresses issues that have more recently emerged as especially significant such as concerns about the implications of globalization and the post 9 11 world commercialism violence and the ever increasing influence of high stakes testing This compelling text is relevant for a wide range of courses in educational foundations educational policy curriculum studies and multicultural education that address the social context of education cultural and political change and public policy

Refugee and Immigrant Students Florence E. McCarthy, Margaret H. Vickers, 2012-09-01 The focus of this book is on educational equity issues affecting immigrants and refugees around the world Chapters highlight educational approaches that build from experiential knowledge draw upon multiple languages consider group identity grapple with the complexities of inclusion address family concerns promote parental involvement involve liaison with community agencies and view cultural differences as educational strengths While the book does not shy away from exploring the more challenging aspects of the refugee and immigrant experience it avoids dwelling on victimology and rejects applying a deficit framework Rather it offers hope emphasizing the potential strengths of refugees including their cultural capital and survival skills The authors also make cogent suggestions for structural pedagogical and conceptual reform with targets ranging from individual teachers to educational systems to social economic political and cultural contexts student outcomes in multicultural learning environments Educating the Consumer-citizen Joel Spring, 2003-05-14 In Educating the Consumer Citizen: A History of the Marriage of Schools, Advertising, and Media, Joel Spring charts the rise of consumerism as the dominant American ideology of the 21st century. He documents and analyzes how from the early 19th century through the present, the combined endeavors of schools, advertising, and media have led to the creation of a consumerist ideology and ensured its central place in American life and global culture. Spring first defines consumerist ideology and consumer citizen and explores their 19th-century origins in schools, children's literature, the commercialization of American cities, advertising, newspapers, and the development of department stores. He then traces the rise of consumerist ideology in the 20th century by looking closely at the impact of the home economics profession on the education of women as consumers and the development of an American cuisine based on packaged and processed foods, the influence of advertising images of sports heroes, cowboys, and the clean-shaven businessman in shaping male identity, the outcomes of the growth of the high school as a mass institution on the development of teenage consumer markets, the consequences of commercial radio and television joining with the schools to educate a consumer-oriented population, so that by the 1950s consumerist images were tied to the Cold War and presented as the American way of life in both media and schools, the effects of the civil rights movement on integrating previously excluded groups into the consumer society, the changes the women's movement demanded in textbooks, school curricula, media, and advertising that led to a new image of women in the consumer market, and the ascent of fast food education. Spring carries the story into the 21st century by examining the evolving marriage of schools, advertising, and media and its ongoing role in educating the consumer citizen and creating an integrated consumer market. This book will be of wide interest to scholars, professionals, and students across foundations of education, history, and sociology of education, educational policy, mass communications, American history, and cultural studies. It is highly appropriate as a text for courses in these areas.

Non-Western Educational Traditions Timothy G. Reagan, 2004-09-22 This text provides a brief yet comprehensive overview of a number of non-Western approaches to educational thought and practice. Its premise is that understanding the ways that other people educate their children, as well as what counts for them as education, may help us think more clearly about some of our own assumptions and values and to become more open to alternative viewpoints about important educational matters. The value of this informative, mind-opening text for preservice and in-service teacher education courses is enhanced by Questions for Discussion and Reflection and Recommended Further Readings included in each chapter. New in the Third Edition: Chapter 2, "Conceptualizing Culture: I, We, and The Other," is new to this edition. It is a response to feedback about the problems inherent in our general discourse about culture and, in addition, provides an example of a culture that is near to us but nevertheless alien: the culture of the Deaf World. Chapter 9, which deals with Islam and traditional Muslim education, has been substantially revised. The subtitle of the Third Edition has been changed to Indigenous Approaches to Educational Thought and Practice, reflecting not so much a change in the emphases found in the book but rather a recognition of the growing scholarly interest in indigenous peoples their languages cultures and histories Various points throughout the text have been expanded and clarified and chapters have been updated as needed

Studying Educational and Social Policy Ronald H. Heck, 2004-07-19 The purpose of this textbook is to introduce beginning researchers to the study of policy making how it has been examined from a scholarly perspective and the salient issues to consider in conceptualizing and conducting policy research

How Educational Ideologies Are Shaping Global Society Joel Spring, 2014-04-08 In this book Joel Spring explores three major international educational ideologies that are shaping global society neo liberal educational ideology human rights education and environmentalism Neo liberal ideology reflects a rethinking of nationalist forms of education as the nation state slowly erodes under the power of a growing global civil society Traditional nationalist education attempts to mold loyal and patriotic citizens who are emotionally attached to symbols of the state whereas the goal of neo liberal educational ideology is to change nationalist education to serve the needs of the global economy These changes are fueling a clash between the ideas of free market and consumer based neo liberals and those of human rights and environmental educators Human rights education is concerned with creating activist global citizens It is rooted in the idea that inherent in human rights doctrines is a collective responsibility to ensure the rights of all people Environmentalism is the most radical of the ideologies because it rejects the industrial and consumerist paradigm that has dominated most economic thought including capitalism and communism Spring synthesizes and analyzes the effect of these educational ideologies on shaping the future of the global society In the concluding section he compares the effect of these ideologies on global society with the possibility of a world divided between conflicting civilizations

How Educational Ideologies Are Shaping Global Society Intergovernmental Organizations NGOs and the Decline of the Nation State features a critical exploration of the transition of schooling from a function of the nation state to a globalized economic and political system a discussion of the major organizations and trading blocs shaping the future globalization of educational policies an analysis of the major competing global ideologies of education including national and corporate models that emphasize training workers for a competitive global free market the worldwide network of human rights and peace educators who are teaching a global set of ethics and the environmental movement s efforts to create a common set of educational standards for sustainable development and sustainable consumption and an exploration of the possible future of global educational policy and school organizations By integrating a wide range of previously scattered information within a bold new framework for understanding educational ideologies and their impact on the global society Spring raises important questions for researchers professionals and students in history and philosophy of education educational policy educational studies comparative education multicultural education curriculum studies critical media studies global studies human rights education and related areas
