Education In Africa:

Education in Africa Dr. Susan Grant Lewis, 2014-09-29 Many people believe education in Africa is in a state of crisis More than 45 million African children do not attend school In many places classes are held outside under tents or trees and schools often do not have such essential supplies as chalk and textbooks Yet there have also been significant improvements in recent years More young Africans are able to attend school today than a generation ago and the governments of many countries are attempting to address the problems in their educational systems This book chronicles the development of educational systems in Africa from the colonial era to the present day It examines the current state of education in Africa discussing the effect that the continent's poverty has on funding schools and explaining the persistence of educational inequalities

Educating Tomorrow Angela Thody, 2000 It is well accepted that education needs to be equalised along gender lines However until the management of education is also gender sensitive that content cannot expect to be effectively communicated This is the premise of this groundbreaking book It addresses gender issues and management practices in education by critically examining both successes and failures drawn from a number of African countries It proposes ways of improving the management of education to focus on women who have hitherto been left out of the mainstream of educational and training practices It throws a uniquely African light on an issue that goes to the heart of the process of democratisation In order to empower the girl child in the new South Africa and in Africa the patriarchal and parochial structures that exist within the African educational paradigm need to be broken down and replaced This would address problems such as why women are discouraged from certain fields of studies like sciences the effect that interactions in learning situations can have on the achievement and attainment of female students and the critical necessity of educating and training girls in rural Africa The book speaks to the heart of the administrative processes within the education framework and shows how the way classes are structured or materials selected needs to be adapted in order to correct the present imbalance It was created and developed with the aim of seeking out the best education management practices finding common analyses from these and using them to develop guidelines for future education management

Facing Forward Sajitha Bashir, Marlane Lockheed, Elizabeth Ninan, Jee-Peng Tan, 2018-09-20 Facing Forward lays out a range of policy and implementation actions that are needed for countries in Sub Saharan Africa to meet the challenge of improving learning while expanding access and completion of basic education for all The book underscores the importance of aligning the education system to be relentlessly focused on learning outcomes and to ensuring that all children have access to good schools good learning materials and good teachers It is unique in characterizing countries according to the challenges they faced in the 1990s and the educational progress they have made over the past 25 years allowing countries in the region to learn from each other The authors review the global literature and add to it by their extensive new analyses of multiple datasets from more than three dozen countries in the region they integrate findings about what affects children's learning their access to schooling and progress through basic education The book draws lessons from the region and for the region about what works and what is needed to better implement what is known to have worked The book examines four areas to help countries better align their systems to improve learning 1 completing the unfinished agenda of reaching universal basic education with quality 2 ensuring effective management and support of teachers 3 targeting spending priorities and budget processes on improving quality and 4 closing the institutional capacity gap It concludes with an assessment of how future educational progress may be affected by projected fertility rates and economic growth

The Changing Landscape of Education in Africa David Johnson, 2008-05-12 It is over 40 years since Coombs 1967 first drew attention to the World Education Crisis and specifically problems in the educational systems of countries in the developing world Today many of these problems remain and are most visible in the educational systems of countries in sub Saharan Africa A large number of children remain out of school and for those who do enrol less than half complete the primary education cycle More worrying is the fact that those who do complete primary schooling leave with unacceptably low levels of knowledge and skills The problems of access to education and the quality of learning opportunities and learning outcomes are unevenly spread between rural and urban areas better and worse off constituencies and between boys and girls This raises questions about the nature of the state and its commitment to equality and equity for all The chapters in this volume argue that quality equity and democratic accountability are inseparable objectives in the quest to strengthen and improve educational systems in the developing world Between them they highlight the specific problems of quality equity and democratic accountability in a number of African educational systems and provide useful insights into ongoing work by national governments and international donor agencies to remedy these shortcomings

Universal Primary Education in Africa: Daniel N. Sifuna, Isabella M. Kamere, Donald K. Kombo, 2021 Many countries all over the world are struggling to achieve for all As part of such effort they have strategized to provide universal primary education which normally refers to the enrollment of all school age children in primary schools namely achieving one hundred percent of the net enrollment While such efforts have been realized in many developing countries it is a major challenge in most developing countries especially in Africa following the attainment of independence This book focuses on the influence of donor agencies in setting for the development of education in Africa leading to the preliminary interventions by different African English countries through the provision of free primary education It is noted that most of the countries which introduced fee remission through free primary education experienced massive enrollments as many children from disadvantaged groups took advantage of the policy intervention to send their children to school However the push for it came to be identified with increasing deterioration in the quality of primary education right from the provision of physical facilities teaching and learning materials deployment of teachers performance and transition from primary to secondary education The quality of infrastructure and teaching and learning materials were in a deplorable state especially in the rural areas where such enrollments were well above the official recommended number of pupils per classroom It proceeds to provide an interesting and easy to read accounts of the development of universal primary education in selected countries analyzing successes and challenges Among the key challenges identified in the implementation of the UPE policy include the lack of adequate planning financing inadequate infrastructure and the HIV AIDS scourge On the basis of the above challenges it is important that policy measures are put in place to improve the quality of primary education in many countries

Education and Development in Africa A. R. Thompson, 1981 Teacher Education in Sub-Saharan Africa Rosarii Griffin, 2012-05-14 In the drive to achieve universal primary education as one of the Millennium Development Goals there is an increasing recognition of the urgency of focusing on teacher education to both meet the demand for more than one million qualified teachers required to achieve this goal within sub Saharan Africa as well as to combat the sometimes poor quality educational experience reported in the school Currently approximately only one third of teachers are qualified to teach This dearth in qualified teachers also means that secondary and tertiary education need to be improved upon to provide an educated cohort of graduates This in turn will ensure that the quality of teacher trained and retained within the profession is of a sufficiently high standard to ensure sustainable progress This volume focuses on the various aspects of teacher education which need to be addressed in order for the wider Millennium Goals to be achieved but more importantly so that each African child living within sub Saharan Africa will have the right to a quality education ensuring they too experience their right and entitlement as children to reach their full potential often taken for granted in Western countries giving African children the necessary tools to build a better future for themselves Of particular interest to the education researcher and policy maker this volume s contributors look at the various issues and challenges around the teacher profession particularly in relation to resources and practices within sub Saharan Africa The contributors examine the issue of building research capacity for educational research within teacher education Colleges and explore the concept of education for sustainable development with the view to improving the development of quality teacher education within the global South In this volume research reports are presented highlighting the various challenges within the structure and provision of teacher education within certain national contexts including assessment and curricula issues which need to be addressed This volume goes from the global to the local and examines teacher educator teaching learning and reflective practice issues within different contexts as well as exploring alternative pre service experiences for western teachers who wish to work within the sub Saharan context as well as some teacher educator exchange programmes between the South and North Case countries explored include Lesotho South Africa Mozambique Uganda Kenya Tanzania and Madagascar to mention but a few Of particular value to the education researcher and policy maker this book provides a timely resource focusing on an area of neglect highlighting the central role of the teacher and teacher education towards sustainable development within the sub Saharan African context
