Once in Tokyo during such a mood of reminiscence, I suggested that he let me get a note book and pencil and take the impressions down in order. He agreed and in a few moments more I was ready and had inscribed a new note book with the words "Notes on Ernest's Childhood." The following pages are those written at his dictation. Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts (1) We have not used OCR (Optical Character Recognition), as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos. (2) In books where there are images such as portraits, maps, sketches, etc., we have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact. Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts, we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy.
