Schooling German Girls and Women James C. Albisetti, 2014-07-14 James Albisetti provides the first comprehensive study in any language of the development of secondary schools for girls in the various German states during the nineteenth century and of the struggles waged by women after 1865 to gain access to higher education and the liberal professions Through comparisons with contemporaneous developments in other European countries he points out what was typical and what unique in the German experience in such areas as the operation and curricula of girls schools the opportunities for women teachers the debates over increased educational and employment opportunities for women and the strategies and tactics adopted by feminist organizations The work is based on a wide variety of published sources and on the previously unexplored archives of the Prussian Ministry of Education Topics discussed include the divisions between feminists interested in separate educational institutions for women and those wanting coeducational study at both the secondary and the university levels and the impact of feminists on the major educational reforms introduced in Prussia and other German states between 1900 and 1910 Acknowledging that German women gained the right to matriculate at domestic universities later than did their sisters in most other European countries the author suggests that an examination of the entire spectrum of educational and employment opportunities for women reveals no discernable German Sonderweg or special path of modernization in this area Originally published in 1989 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905     Towards Emancipation Carol Diethe, 1998 Focusing on feminism in Germany Towards Emancipation examines some of the most influential women writers of the nineteenth century from the late Romantic writers such as Bettina von Arnim and Johanna Schopenhauer to writers who were active in the 1848 Revolution such as Malwida von Meysenbug and Johanna Kinkel The heart of the book is devoted to the leading proponents of emancipation Hedwig Dohm Helene Bohlau and the prolific Louise Otto Peters yet it also includes mainstream writers whose attitudes towards the movement range from lukewarm the enormously popular Marie von Ebner Eschenbach and Gabriele Reuter to downright hostile Lou Andreas Salome and Franziska zu Reventlow

Music in Other Words Ruth A. Solie, 2004-02-19 Just as the preoccupations of any given cultural moment make their way into the language of music the experience of music makes its way into other arenas of life To unearth these overlapping meanings and vocabularies from the Victorian era Ruth A Solie examines sources as disparate as journalism novels etiquette manuals religious tracts and teenagers diaries for the muffled even subterranean conversations that reveal so much about what music meant to the Victorians Her essays giving voice to what goes without saying on the subject that cultural information so present and pervasive as to go unsaid fill in some of the most intriguing blanks in our understanding of music's history This much anticipated collection bringing together new and hard to find pieces by an acclaimed musicologist mines the abundant casual texts of the period to show how Victorian era people English and others experienced music and what they understood to be its power and its purposes Solie's essays start from topics as varied as Beethoven criticism Macmillan's Magazine George Eliot's Daniel Deronda opera tropes in literature and the Victorian myth of the girl at the piano They evoke common themes including the moral force that was attached to music in the public mind and the strongly gendered nature of musical practice and sensibility and in turn suggest the complex links between the history of music and the history of ideas
