He Shines In All That's Fair:

He Shines in All That's Fair Richard J. Mouw, 2002-08-23 How do Christians account for the widespread presence of goodness in a fallen world? Different theological perspectives have presented a range of answers to this fundamental question over the centuries. In He Shines in All That's Fair, Richard Mouw brings the historic insights of Calvinism to bear on this question and reinterprets them for a broader audience at the turn of the twenty-first century. Mouw examines long-standing Reformed arguments between those who champion the doctrine of common grace and those who emphasize an antithesis between the church and the world. Defenders of common grace account for the goodness in the world by insisting that God's grace goes beyond salvation to more general gifts of beauty, virtue, and excellence to all human beings, including those who do not believe in God. Those who reject the doctrine of common grace, on the other hand, emphasize the fallenness of the world and the need for the church to maintain a dramatic contrast to it. These divergent theological perspectives, while seemingly remote and abstract, lead to questions with very practical implications: What common ground do Christians share with those outside the faith? How should Christians treat their non-Christian neighbors? How should Christians relate to the world around them? Does God disapprove when Christians form close friendships with people who are of the world? Ought Christians to identify with the joys and sorrows of those who do not confess Christ as their Savior and Lord? In the course of this book, Mouw looks at these topics, connecting the larger theological discussions to pressing issues in contemporary society. He insists that we have much to learn from thinkers who have rejected the idea of common non-saving grace, but he also defends the traditional common grace teachings, showing how they provide an important basis for wrestling with key challenges in present-day culture. Ultimately, Mouw argues forcefully for a Calvinism that is capable of standing in awe before the mysteries of God's gracious dealings with all human beings and indeed the whole creation. Presented as the 2000 Stob Lectures at Calvin College and Calvin Theological Seminary, these soundly reasoned, elegantly written chapters offer an updated, robust understanding of common grace that will be of great value to anyone interested in the relation of church and culture.

Follow Me Daniel Thomas, 2024-10-03 Follow Me is a unique contribution of Mr. Daniel Thomas to the devotional literary world and history of the Mar Thoma Church in North America. His ardent efforts are appreciated since he brought together the thoughts of great literary geniuses, the contributions of great church leaders, and the legacies of great missionary warriors from different epochs of history. It was an ambitious task; it was a good discipline, and has turned out as a great contribution. He has done everything possible to point to the great Master or Rabbi of human civilization, Jesus Christ. Jesus called his disciples, saying, "Follow me." This call resonates through the biblical world of God's call of the Patriarch Abraham, the call of Moses to liberate the People of God from slavery from Egypt. God's call continues through prophets, priests, judges, and kings. Rt. Rev. Dr. Abraham Mar Paulos, Diocesan Bishop. Theistic Evolution J. P. Moreland, Stephen C. Meyer, Christopher Shaw, Ann K. Gauger, Wayne Grudem, 2017-11-15 Many prominent Christians insist that the church must yield to contemporary evolutionary theory and therefore modify traditional biblical ideas about the creation of life They argue that God used albeit in an undetectable way evolutionary mechanisms to produce all forms of life Featuring two dozen highly credentialed scientists philosophers and theologians from Europe and North America this volume contests this proposal documenting evidential logical and theological problems with theistic evolution making it the most comprehensive critique of theistic evolution yet produced

A Church for a Secular World Marinus De Jong, 2025-09-25 The relationship between the Church and the world has been a subject of debate since the Church's earliest days Stanley Hauerwas with his emphasis on the Church as polis has made a significant contemporary contribution one that has also faced strong criticism This study examines the distinctive insights of second generation neo Calvinist theologian Klaas Schilder 1890 1952 on this issue Neo Calvinism is renowned for its development of Reformed theology particularly in this area and Schilder builds on this tradition with a critical eye Engaging with the increasing secularity of the twentieth century he carefully interacts with Karl Barth's writings while refining his own perspective In doing so Schilder's position comes close to the Anabaptist stance of Hauerwas yet remains firmly rooted in the Reformed understanding of creation
