McCreary, 2024-05-16 An award winning Belfast journalist reflects on reporting Northern Ireland's Troubles global conflicts and the complex interplay between religion and journalism In this book the award winning Belfast journalist and author reflects on a long career of reporting on the main events in Northern Ireland over the past sixty years and on the aftermath of conflicts in the developing world including Sri Lanka Cambodia Vietnam and Rwanda He covered the worst of the Troubles from the beginning in 1968-69 and reported on some of the most disturbing atrocities such as Bloody Sunday the Kingsmill Massacre and the no warning IRA explosion at the Enniskillen Cenotaph on Remembrance Sunday He has seen religion at its worst and its best and he observes how the Christian faith has sustained so many people in times of great suffering and distress and how the mispractice of this faith has led to division misunderstanding and hostility The author also reflects on his experience of reporting on well known figures in Northern Ireland ranging from Gordon and Joan Wilson whose daughter Marie died in the Enniskillen Cenotaph bomb to the Reverend Ian Paisley He also writes about the courageous and often unheralded bridge builders including the Reverend Dr Ray Davey the World War II veteran and a Presbyterian minister who founded Corrymeela the Christian inter church centre and who was light years ahead of his church and his society in seeing the urgent need for reconciliation The author offers telling insights into well known individuals in a society with no easy answers to challenging problems and asks why the Christian message has been so badly represented by all the main churches He questions the role of journalists over decades when balanced reporting was so important but at times very difficult and suggests that truth has never been more in danger than it is today His journey of faith through the unholy alliance between religion and politics does not make for easy reading but he still retains his personal faith in the best of human nature which can shine through inspiringly even in the worst of times Vietnam Bulletin, 1970 Hit the

Headlines Colin MacFarlane, 2012 Exercises games and scenarios to encourage 9-15 year olds to seek out further knowledge in areas such as news journalism social issues IT data assessment and intelligent observation Includes suggestions on assisting with editing creating class or school newspapers or news websites and the employment of journalistic techniques to enhance study topics Strange Headlines Gideon Blackwood, AI, 2025-03-29 Strange Headlines explores the world of unintentionally humorous newspaper headlines born from linguistic ambiguity and the pressures of quick news production It examines how language errors like misplaced modifiers or ambiguous pronouns can transform serious news into comedic gold. For example, a poorly worded headline might inadvertently create a double entendre offering a laugh where none was intended. The book argues that these errors are more than just funny; they're valuable lessons in effective communication. The book progresses by first introducing concepts of linguistic ambiguity and journalistic pressures. Then it presents real-world examples categorized by error type drawn from various news sources. This approach offers a unique perspective on how even professionals can fall victim to linguistic pitfalls, highlighting the power and limitations of language in a concise format. Ultimately, Strange Headlines aims to improve readers' communication skills and media literacy through the analysis of humorous journalistic mishaps.

Giles, 2023-06-20. A suspicious fire destroys an historic hotel where a stranger plunges to his death from an upper story window. Newsman Kieran Red Maguire takes to the dark streets to unravel the mystery. It's the summer of 1955 in the legendary mining city of Butte, Montana. The Bugle crime reporter uncovers clues leading to death threats and gunshots in the night. More fires ignite in uptown buildings. Maguire and his reliable source for inside crime news, police detective Harold Duke Ferndale, find themselves under siege from all directions. Maguire copes with his alcoholic mother while his love interest, Irene Honey Rossini, begs him to quit the newspaper business instead of risking his life to pry into well-kept secrets. Danger stalks Red Maguire, and his quest for truth leads to a fierce confrontation that Honey feared most.
