During the formative classical period of Islamic jurisprudence, well-known scholars possessed not only the intellectual skills required for analytic reasoning but also a broad general knowledge of the fields relevant to the cultural contexts in which they issued their edicts. A viable fatwa requires knowledge of the Shari'ah as well as local customs, cultural realities, individual and communal implications, and related matters. The original juristic tradition was formulated and fixed during the first three Islamic centuries, a time of widespread sociopolitical turmoil. Of course, the jurists' legal outlooks and thinking processes could not have escaped this reality. While Muslims of the prophetic and Rashidun periods adhered closely to the authentic texts due to their sincerity, piety, prophetic training, and proximity to the revelation, the changing environment in which their descendants functioned gradually started to impact how the authentic texts were understood, interpreted, paraphrased, and implemented. Both the Muslim and the non-Muslim worlds have drastically changed since that time. The new geopolitical and scientific realities of our rapidly changing world demand a fresh look at some aspects of the established juristic tradition. The way forward involves a systematic fresh look at and reevaluation of the old fatwas as well as the issuance of new ones with a maqsid outlook that can deal successfully with today's ever-changing global realities. In this edited volume, papers on fatwa and ift point to an approach that is both rooted in the Islamic legacy and committed to meeting the challenges of the modern world. Bibliography of the History of Medicine, 1993 Spirit and Healing in Africa Deborah van den Bosch-Heij, 2012-01-01 There is a great need for healing in Africa. This need is in itself no different elsewhere in the world, but it is greatly determined by the involvement of religious communities and traditions. Faith communities and religious institutions play a major role in assisting African believers to find health, healing, and completeness in everyday life.

Routledge Handbook of Religion, Medicine, and Health Dorothea Lüddeckens, Philipp Hetmanczyk, Pamela E.

Klassen, Justin B. Stein, 2021-11-24 The relationships between religion, spirituality, health, biomedical institutions, complementary, and alternative healing systems are widely discussed today. While many of these debates revolve around the biomedical legitimacy of religious modes of healing, the market for them continues to grow. The Routledge Handbook of Religion, Medicine, and Health is an outstanding reference source to the key topics, problems, and debates in this exciting subject and is the first collection of its kind. Comprising over thirty-five chapters by a team of international contributors, the Handbook is divided into five parts: Healing practices with religious roots and frames; Religious actors in and around the medical field; Organizing infrastructures of religion and medicine; pluralism and competition; Boundary making between religion and medicine; Religion and epidemics. Within these sections, central issues, debates, and problems are examined, including health and healing, religiosity, spirituality, biomedicine, medicalization, complementary medicine, medical therapy, efficacy, agency, and the nexus of body, mind, and spirit. The Routledge Handbook of Religion, Medicine, and Health is essential reading for students and researchers in religious studies. The Handbook will also be very useful for those in related fields such as sociology, anthropology, and medicine. Working Cures Sharla M. Fett, 2002 Working Cures explores black health under slavery, showing how herbalism, conjuring, midwifery, and other African American healing practices became arts of resistance in the antebellum South and invoked conflicts.

In Amma's Healing Room Joyce Burkhalter Flueckiger, 2006-04-26 It is extremely salubrious to see the ways Islam works in the lives of ordinary people who are not politicized in their religious lives. No other book on South Asia has material like this. Ann Grodzins Gold. In Amma's Healing Room is a compelling study of the life and thought of a female Muslim spiritual healer in Hyderabad, South India. Joyce Burkhalter Flueckiger describes Amma's practice as a form of vernacular Islam arising in a particular locality, one in which the boundaries between Islam, Hinduism, and Christianity are fluid. In the healing room, Amma meets a diverse clientele that includes men and women Muslim Hindu and Christian of varied social backgrounds who bring a wide range of physical social and psychological afflictions Flueckiger collaborated closely with Amma and relates to her at different moments as daughter disciple and researcher The result is a work of insight and compassion that challenges widely held views of religion and gender in India and reveals the creativity of a tradition often portrayed by Muslims and non Muslims alike as singular and monolithic
