The Health of Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender People Institute of Medicine, Board on the Health of Select Populations, Committee on Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender Health Issues and Research Gaps and Opportunities, 2011-06-24 At a time when lesbian gay bisexual and transgender individuals often referred to under the umbrella acronym LGBT are becoming more visible in society and more socially acknowledged clinicians and researchers are faced with incomplete information about their health status While LGBT populations often are combined as a single entity for research and advocacy purposes each is a distinct population group with its own specific health needs Furthermore the experiences of LGBT individuals are not uniform and are shaped by factors of race ethnicity socioeconomic status geographical location and age any of which can have an effect on health related concerns and needs The Health of Lesbian Gay Bisexual and Transgender People assesses the state of science on the health status of LGBT populations identifies research gaps and opportunities and outlines a research agenda for the National Institute of Health The report examines the health status of these populations in three life stages childhood and adolescence early middle adulthood and later adulthood At each life stage the committee studied mental health physical health risks and protective factors health services and contextual influences To advance understanding of the health needs of all LGBT individuals the report finds that researchers need more data about the demographics of these populations improved methods for collecting and analyzing data and an increased participation of sexual and gender minorities in research The Health of Lesbian Gay Bisexual and Transgender People is a valuable resource for policymakers federal agencies including the National Institute of Health NIH LGBT advocacy groups clinicians and service providers
