England's Other Cathedrals Paul Jeffery, 2012-03-05 England's great cathedrals are widely considered to be the country's finest and most beautiful possessions Few people realise however that in addition to these famous buildings there are many others that share or once shared some of that greatness These other cathedrals have very varied origins There were cathedrals established in Anglo Saxon times that subsequently lost that status Further cathedrals founded after the Norman Conquest also later ceased Henry VIII had plans to elevate many great monastic churches to cathedral status but most were unfulfilled From the nineteenth century onwards many new cathedrals have been created both by the Church of England and by other Churches Altogether eight groups are discussed containing in total well over a hundred buildings Most are fine and many are or were in their size and magnificence fully comparable with the great cathedrals themselves Some today stand complete and glorious Others are now mutilated or in ruin Some have been completely destroyed but even these may stir us by their lost glories Paul Jeffery explores the often fascinating episodes of history that lie behind these groups of magnificent and frequently forgotten buildings The spotlight is then turned on each one revealing many architectural and historical treasures

A Serious House Martin Camroux,2024-04-30 The church is in deep trouble maybe in its death throes Losing touch with the church has meant a break with the Western cultural past its history its music its art its literature much of which cannot fully be understood without its religious heritage But something more important than any of that is in danger of being lost The church is a deeply imperfect and frustrating organization but within it community is experienced values are nurtured and God s presence in the world is embodied in a people The church carries the story of Jesus it tells the story of who we are it calls us to give away our lives to others and to find love as life s central meaning We have crossed a cultural divide Before if you did not hold traditional religious beliefs and belong to a church you felt obliged to explain yourself Now the pressure is to explain why you do This is my answer
