III Sir Adolphus William Ward,Alfred Rayney Waller,1916 The Working-Class Intellectual in Eighteenth- and Nineteenth-Century Britain Aruna Krishnamurthy,2016-12-14 In Britain the period that stretches from the middle of the eighteenth century to the mid nineteenth century marks the emergence of the working classes alongside and in response to the development of the middle class public sphere This collection contributes to that scholarship by exploring the figure of the working class intellectual who both assimilates the anti authoritarian lexicon of the middle classes to create a new political and cultural identity and revolutionizes it with the subversive energy of class hostility Through considering a broad range of writings across key moments of working class self expression the essays reevaluate a host of familiar writers such as Robert Burns John Thelwall Charles Dickens Charles Kingsley Ann Yearsley and even Shakespeare in terms of their role within a working class constituency The collection also breaks fresh ground in eighteenth and nineteenth century scholarship by shedding light on a number of unfamiliar and underrepresented figures such as Alexander Somerville Michael Faraday and the singer Ned Corvan industrial towns Belfast audiences had experienced English opera in the eighteenth century and in due course in the nineteenth century they found themselves receiving the touring opera companies in theatres newly built to accommodate them Through an energetic groundwork revision of contemporary sources Johnston and Plummer reveal a picture of sustained vitality and development that justifies Belfast's prominent place in the history of nineteenth century musical culture in Ireland and more broadly in the British Isles
