Charles Cox,2015-07-11 Excerpt from The Parish Registers of England This work a great improvement upon the straggling chapters of Burn s bigger book was much appreciated especially by the clergy but it has been long out of print and difficult to procure through second hand agencies Meanwhile I kept steadily before my mind the hope of producing a book which whilst based upon the labours of my predecessors Burn and Waters should strike out a wider line of its own and aim at a better arrangement and at a fuller explanation of unusual points At last after many interruptions literary and otherwise the idea has matured and these pages are put forth with a fair amount of hope that they may prove useful and helpful to those who desire to have a better understanding of parochial registers Another book on this subject was produced in 1908 of the highest value and yet in no sense clashing with this work or causing me to falter in my task which had then made considerable advance I allude to Mr Arthur Meredyth Burke s volume called A Key to the Ancient Parish Registers of England and Wales In the following year a supplement of addenda and corrigenda was also issued The object of this laborious work is to provide those who have reason to consult parish registers with an easy and reliable guide as to the period covered by each of them and also with information as to their having been printed if such has been the case About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www forgottenbooks com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
