Reconceptualising Reflection in Reflective Practice Misrah Mohamed, Radzuwan Ab Rashid, 2023-05-10 This edited volume presents a model that embraces four components of reflective practice planning acting reflecting and evaluating The complexities of reflective practice are manifested through three aspects of reflection problem solving action orientedness and critical reflection To provide practical guidance the audience is presented with various sets of experiences within the field of education which represent different foci and criticality of reflection The experiences are described through different lenses from individual to groups of educators The chapters provide a reconceptualisation of reflection which underpins an effective reflective practice Therefore readers are provided with information that demonstrates the different phases of reflection that make up an effective cycle of reflective practice It is through the chapters that readers will be able to distinguish the different foci and levels of reflection thus enabling them to engage in reflective practice more effectively The Malaysian context that the book brings gives readers insights into a lesser known context and its people culture and educational system as a whole for comparison The book is written with the needs of student teachers and teacher educators in mind However the model reconceptualised is transferable to other disciplines too

Mapping the Spectrum Klaus Hentschel, 2002 Ever since the boom of spectrum analysis in the 1860s spectroscopy has become one of the most fruitful research technologies in analytic chemistry physics astronomy and other sciences This book is the first in depth study of the ways in which various types of spectra especially the sun's Fraunhofer lines have been recorded displayed and interpreted The book assesses the virtues and pitfalls of various types of depictions including hand sketches woodcuts engravings lithographs and from the late 1870s onwards photomechanical reproductions The material of a 19th century engraver or lithographer the daily research practice of a spectroscopist in the laboratory or a student's use of spectrum posters in the classroom all are looked at and documented here For pioneers of photography such as John Herschel or Hermann Wilhelm Vogel the spectrum even served as a prime test object for gauging the color sensitivity of their processes This is a broad contextual portrayal of the visual culture of spectroscopy in the 19th and early 20th centuries The illustrations are not confined to spectra they show instruments laboratories people at work and plates of printing manuals The result is a multifaceted description focusing on the period from Fraunhofer up to the beginning of Bohr's quantum theory A great deal of new and fascinating material from two dozen archives has been included A must for anyone interested in the history of modern science or in research practice using visual representations

Jobs for the Girls Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Trade and Industry Committee, 2005-05-19 Occupational segregation has a major effect on the gender pay gap in the UK and deprives employers of potential recruits a fact of particular importance in areas of skills shortages The Committee's report examines occupational segregation and the associated tendencies for predominantly female occupations to be lower paid and undervalued It focuses on four key aspects the lack of knowledge about career options as a barrier to young people choosing non traditional occupations problems in accessing training in atypical areas difficulties with alien or sometimes even hostile business culture and the lack of availability of part time or flexible working in the higher paid occupations and at senior levels in all occupations The Committee expresses its support for the work of the Sector Skills Councils in addressing this problem and in disseminating good practice and argues that other organisations such as trade associations and Regional Development Agencies should become more active in this area The Committee also calls on the Government to review equal pay legislation to try and make the principle of equal pay for work of equal value more effective Willing's Press Guide
