A Concise Bibliography for Students of English Arthur Garfield Kennedy, Donald B. Sands, 1966

The Philosophical Biographer Martin Maner, 2009-01-01 The Philosophical Biographer shows how a shift in philosophical outlook in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries from an understanding of human knowledge rooted in deductive certainties to one resting on inductive probability influenced the development of biographical narrative in general and in particular the way Johnson dealt with biographical evidence in his Lives of the Poets. Examining the psychological and philosophical doubt that lay at the heart of Johnson's character and intellect, Martin Maner reveals in the biographical studies of Savage, Swift, Milton, and Pope an ingrained pattern of dialectical argument and a skeptical attitude toward evidence, a method that involves the reader in judgments about the poets as it conveys Johnson's own understanding of truth. In the Life of Savage, Johnson moves from thesis to antithesis, generating out of opposing emotional responses irony and sympathy, ridicule and pathos, an understanding of the man. Dialectically undercutting the conclusions of previous biographers of Swift and Milton, Johnson fashions a new, somewhat acidic estimation of Swift and a portrait of Milton that engages contemporary questions of the probable and the marvelous. The Life of Pope, Johnson's greatest dialectical achievement, alternates between blame and praise, public and private realms, weaving tone, context, and analogy into great contrasting patterns of inquiry and judgment. Establishing the centrality of a dialectical method in the Lives of the Poets, Martin Maner links the rise of biography as well as Johnson's interest in the form to the shift in epistemology brought about by empiricism. In the new patterns of thought of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, biography, the estimation of a life through sifting of historical events and evidence, was the most philosophical of endeavors, and Johnson its greatest practitioner.

Writing Lives in the Eighteenth Century

Tanya M. Caldwell, 2020-09-18. Writing Lives in the Eighteenth Century is a collection of essays on memoir, biography, and autobiography during a formative period for the genre. The essays revolve around recognized male and female figures, returning to the Boswell and Burney circle but presenting arguments that dismantle traditional privileging of biographical modes. The contributors reconsider the processes of hero making in the beginning phases of a culture of celebrity. Employing the methodology William Godwin outlined for novelists of taking material from all sources—experience, report, and the records of human affairs—each contributor examines within the contexts of their time and historical traditions the anxieties and imperatives of the autobiographer as she or he shapes material into a legacy. New work on Frances Burney, Dr. Arbuckle's son Alexander, as revealed through letters on Isabelle de Charrière, on Hester Thrale Piozzi, and on Alicia LeFanu, and Frances Burney's realignment of family biography extend current conversations about eighteenth-century biography and autobiography. Published by Bucknell University Press. Distributed worldwide by Rutgers University Press.

Eighteenth Century Poetry & Prose

Louis Ignatius Bredvold, 1956. The purpose of this volume is to provide representative selections from English prose and poetry of the eighteenth century for undergraduate courses in that period. In this second edition of the anthology, the editors have expanded the contents considerably. Additions have been made from Addison, Pope, Swift, Young, Smart, Burke, and Reynolds, with Blake's comments. The extensive notes and introductions should assist the beginning student to understand the texts, but it is hoped that they will also lead him to explore further in the works listed in the bibliographies Prose in the Age of Poets Annette Wheeler Cafarelli, 2015-09-30 In Prose in the Age of Poets Annette Wheeler Cafarelli demonstrates that nonfictional narrative of the time was a central expression of British Romanticism. The rise of interest in the individual traditionally associated with Romantic autobiography was actually part of a wider cultural interest in biography especially literary biography. Following Johnson's lead in the Lives of the Poets, virtually every major writer of the period experimented with sequences of short anecdotal lives that became a characteristic Romantic vehicle for discussing theories of creativity, canon and the place of the poet in society. The Romantics took in new directions the examination of the relation of artists' lives and works, biographers and their subjects and texts and their readers. Romantic biography, Cafarelli contends, offers a perspective from which to reconsider conventional boundaries of genre, periodization and the movement from Neoclassicism to Romanticism. In examining the Romantics as prose writers and biographers, Cafarelli explores the affiliations between Romantic theories of reading and writing and twentieth-century critical methodologies. She situates the biographical writings of the major poets including Wordsworth, Coleridge and Byron in the context of detailed analyses of biographies by Johnson, Hazlitt, De Quincey, Scott, Southey and other lesser-known contemporaries. Prose in the Age of Poets will interest scholars and students of Romanticism, Johnson biography and autobiography and narrative theory.

Enlightenment and Reform in Eighteenth-century Europe Derek Beales, 2005-03-24 The 18th century was a unique period of global and fundamental change. Britain conquered India and much of America; the American Revolution produced the USA and Russia expanded vastly. In the field of ideas, the Scientific Revolution was consolidated and followed by the Enlightenment. Nationalism flourished, populations surged and the Commercial and Industrial Revolutions, with Western technology eclipsed the East. Few centuries have inspired such a galaxy of historians and their groundbreaking work has been drawn upon by Derek Beales in his collection of articles and special lectures. He covers the whole European kaleidoscope but focuses especially on Joseph II and the Habsburg monarchy, asserting that Enlightened Despotism was the embodiment of the century's revolution in ideas, politics, government and administration.
