The Struggle to Reform Our Colleges Derek Bok, 2017-09-05 Why efforts to improve American higher educational attainment haven't worked and where to go from here During the first decade of this century many commentators predicted that American higher education was about to undergo major changes that would be brought about under the stimulus of online learning and other technological advances. Toward the end of the decade the president of the United States declared that America would regain its historic lead in the education of its workforce within the next ten years through a huge increase in the number of students earning quality college degrees. Several years have elapsed since these pronouncements were made yet the rate of progress has increased very little if at all in the number of college graduates or the nature and quality of the education they receive. In The Struggle to Reform Our Colleges Derek Bok seeks to explain why so little change has occurred by analyzing the response of America's colleges, the influence of students, employers, foundations, accrediting organizations, and government officials, and the impact of market forces and technological innovation. In the last part of the book Bok identifies a number of initiatives that could improve the performance of colleges and universities. The final chapter examines the process of change itself and describes the strategy best calculated to quicken the pace of reform and enable colleges to meet the challenges that confront them.

Rethinking Assessment in Higher Education David Boud, Nancy Falchikov, 2007-03-28 Pt 1 Setting the scene pt 2 The context of assessment pt 3 Themes pt 4 The practice of assessment Changes For Technical Education Chandan T. Bhunia, 2008-02 Professional Support Beyond Initial Teacher Education Anna Elizabeth Du Plessis, 2019-08-26 This book investigates the professional learning needs of teachers beyond initial teacher education focusing on teachers in complex teaching positions such as out of field teaching practices. The information presented here will help to improve professional learning strategies while also offering an in depth understanding of teachers' needs, leaders' perceptions, and what complex teaching situations mean for teachers' professional learning and development. Further, Du Plessis shares the perceptions and lived experiences of teachers, parents, leaders, and students as key stakeholders in quality teaching and learning environments. In light of new evidence-informed findings on the out of field phenomenon and continuing professional learning, Du Plessis puts forward strategies that will enhance the effectiveness of professional learning and development programs while also fostering improved decision making and policy development. In brief, Du Plessis focuses on the impact that complex teaching situations have on teachers' unique needs, the support that is provided, and the influence of the out of field phenomenon on teachers' responses to continuing professional learning and development programs. Alternative Assessments in Malaysian Higher Education Farrah Dina Yusop, Amira Firdaus, 2022-03-04 This book offers an overview of five categories of alternative assessments used by established and emerging faculty throughout Malaysian institutions of higher education, namely peer and self assessment, group based assessment, performance based assessment, portfolio, and technology based assessment. It features 29 innovative case studies of alternative assessments serving as both inspiration and practical guide for educators planning to design and implement alternative assessments in their own classes. Each chapter showcases viable examples of authentic, holistic, meaningful, and effective assessments as practiced by educators in major universities throughout Malaysia. This book also provides readers a greater appreciation of the varied forms of alternative assessments that are possible limited only by the individual's innovation and motivation Training Higher Education Policy Makers and Leaders Michael T.
