Regions and Designed Landscapes in Georgian England Sarah Spooner,2015-06-26 Garden design evolved hugely during the Georgian period as symbols of wealth and stature the landed aristocracy had been using gardens for decades Yet during the eighteenth century society began to homogenise and the urban elite also started demanding landscapes that would reflect their positions The gardens of the aristocracy and the gentry were different in appearance use and meaning despite broad similarities in form Underlying this was the importance of place of the landscape itself and its raw material Contemporaries often referred to the need to consult the genius of the place when creating a new designed landscape as the place where the garden was located was critical in determining its appearance Genius loci soil type topography water supply all influenced landscape design in this period The approach taken in this book blends landscape and garden history to make new insights into landscape and design in the eighteenth century Spooner's own research presents little known sites alongside those which are more well known and explores the complexity of the story of landscape design in the Georgian period which is usually oversimplified and reduced to the story of a few great men A Bibliography of British History,

1914-1989 Keith Robbins,American Historical Association,Royal Historical Society (Great Britain),1996 Containing over 25 000 entries this unique volume will be absolutely indispensable for all those with an interest in Britain in the twentieth century Accessibly arranged by theme with helpful introductions to each chapter a huge range of topics is covered There is a comprehensive index Country houses and the British Empire, 1700-1930 Stephanie Barczewski,2017-02-01 Country houses and the British empire 1700 1930 assesses the economic and cultural links between country houses and the Empire between the eighteenth and twentieth centuries Using sources from over fifty British and Irish archives it enables readers to better understand the impact of the empire upon the British metropolis by showing both the geographical variations and its different cultural manifestations Barczewski offers a rare scholarly analysis of the history of country houses that goes beyond an architectural or biographical study and recognises their importance as the physical embodiments of imperial wealth and reflectors of imperial cultural influences In so doing she restores them to their true place of centrality in British culture over the last three centuries and provides fresh insights into the role of the Empire in the British metropolis A Little History of British Gardening Jenny Uglow,2012-10-31 Get out in your garden and discover the history hidden in the hedges Did the Romans have rakes Did the monks get muddy Did potatoes seem really really weird when they arrived on our shores Drawn from Jenny Uglow's own love for plants this lively potted history of gardening in Britain takes us on a garden tour from the thorn hedges around prehistoric settlements to the rage for ornamental grasses and outdoor rooms today Tracking down the ordinary folk who worked the earth from weeding women to florists as well as aristocrats and grand designers and famous plant hunters A Little History of British Gardening is brought to life by gorgeously vivid illustrations and Uglow s insightful wisdom Not only dealing with flowery meads grottoes and vistas landscapes and ha has parks and allotments Uglow explains for example how the Tudors made their curious knots how housewives used herbs to stop freckles how the suburbs dug for victory in World War II With a brief guide to particular historic or evocative gardens open to the public this is a book to put in your pocket when planning a crisp winter s day out but also to read in your armchair with a well earned glass of red after a hard day s graft in your own garden Enchanting stirringly evocative and fascinating Daily Mail This book will be a joy for any gardener Independent

Seventeenth-century Water Gardens and the Birth of Modern Scientific thought in Oxford Stephen Wass,2022-12-02 Based on a decade of archaeological investigation and historical research this book tells the story of the Copes of Hanwell Castle in north Oxfordshire and the creation of a garden with links to the development of scientific thinking in Oxford in the late seventeenth century New research using Robert Plot s Natural History of Oxfordshire as a starting point has uncovered details of a remarkable family and their rise and tragic downfall their social circle that included some great names in the development of early scientific thinking and their garden that in effect became a place dedicated to the wonders of technology The complex tale weaves together the activities of a royalist agent Richard Allestree a prodigious musician Thomas Baltzar John Claridge a Hanwell Shepherd with a penchant for weather forecasting and Sir Anthony Cope who in an atmosphere of secrecy and distrust began to gather together a community that eventually was named by Plot as The New Atlantis a reference to a book published earlier in the century by Sir Francis Bacon in which he suggests a model for a Utopian science focused society The book also chronicles the program of archaeological excavation that has uncovered several unusual garden features and most significantly of all describes in detail the unique collection of seventeenth century terracotta garden urns an assemblage that is unparalleled in post medieval archaeology This collection was destroyed in a single episode of vandalism around 1675 and has been preserved in deeply buried deposits of mud and silt Their analysis and reconstruction is opening new insights into the decorative schemes of seventeenth century gardens There is coverage of other gardens of the period and their surviving features as well as an examination of early science and how gardens impacted on its development in many ways

The Poem and the Garden in Early Modern England Deborah Solomon,2022-12-30 This book draws attention to the pervasive artistic rivalry between Elizabethan poetry and gardens in order to illustrate the benefits of a trans media approach to the literary culture of the period In its blending of textual studies with discussions of specific historical patches of earth The Poem and the Garden demonstrates how the fashions that drove poetic invention were as likely to be influenced by a popular print convention or a particular garden experience as they were by the formal genres of the classical poets By moving beyond a strictly verbal approach in its analysis of creative imitation

this volume offers new ways of appreciating the kinds of comparative and competitive methods that shaped early modern poetics Noting shared patterns both conceptual and material in these two areas not only helps explain the persistence of botanical metaphors in sixteenth century books of poetry but also offers a new perspective on the types of contrastive illusions that distinguish the Elizabethan aesthetic With its interdisciplinary approach The Poem and the Garden is of interest to all students and scholars who study early modern poetics book history and garden studies British and Irish

Archaeology, 1994 The English Country House Garden George Plumptre, 2018-10-02 This book will inspire and delight the stories of these gardens so compellingly captured by George Plumptre make the reader stop and tarry awhile marvelling at the energy the vision and the passion of the people who created gardens such as Hidcote Sissinghurst and Great Dixter The English Garden A feast of horticulture and Englishness House here is a space to wander and relax to share secrets and above all to enjoy afternoon tea But even the most peaceful of gardens also take passion and hard work to create This new book takes a fresh look at the English country house garden starting with the owners and the stories behind the making of the gardens Glorious photographs capture the gardens at their finest moments through the seasons and a sparkling and erudite text presents twenty five gardens some grand some personal some celebrated some never before photographed to explore why this garden style has been so very enduring and influential From the Victorian grandeur of Tynnesfield and Cragston to the Arts from Scampston in the same family since the 17th century to new gardens by Dan Pearson and Tom Stuart Smith and with favourites such as Hidcote and Great Dixter alongside new discoveries this book will be a delicious treat for garden lovers The Doctor's Garden Clare Hickman, 2021-01-01 A richly illustrated exploration of how late Georgian gardens associated with medical practitioners advanced science education and agricultural experimentation As Britain grew into an ever expanding empire during the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries new and exotic botanical specimens began to arrive within the nation s public and private spaces Gardens became sites not just of leisure sport and aesthetic enjoyment but also of scientific inquiry and knowledge dissemination Medical practitioners used their botanical training to capitalize on the growing fashion for botanical collecting and agricultural experimentation in institutional semipublic and private gardens across Britain This book highlights the role of these medical practitioners in the changing use of gardens in the late Georgian period marked by a fluidity among the ideas of farm laboratory museum and garden Placing these activities within a wider framework of fashionable scientific and economic interests of the time historian Clare Hickman argues that gardens shifted from predominately static places of enjoyment to key gathering places for improvement knowledge sharing and scientific exploration A History of Gardening in England Mrs. Evelyn Cecil, 1895 Garden History Reference Encyclopedia Tom Turner, The Garden History Reference Encyclopedia is in pdf format with over 10 000 hyperlinks both internal and external to sites of garden history interest The text is twice as long as the Bible and is fully searchable using the free Adobe Reader found on most computers For full details of the contents please
