English Heritage From The Air:

English Heritage from the Air Neil Burton, 1989-01-01      Suffolk's Defended Shore Cain Hegarty, Sarah Newsome, 2014-06-30 Suffolk's Defended Shore presents an illustrated history of the development of military defences on the Suffolk coast using data collected as part of the English Heritage national survey. The survey involved the examination of both modern and historic aerial photographs which led to the creation of a detailed map of the archaeological remains on the county's coast. The results of the survey are dominated by evidence for the military defence of the coast reflecting the importance of the Suffolk coast in national defence strategies over many years. Extensively illustrated, this book highlights the particular importance of historic aerial photographs which provide a different and unique perspective on the coastal defences constructed in World War II. Photographs taken during and immediately after this war sometimes provide the only visual record of the rapidly evolving defences from this period.

Archaeology from Historical Aerial and Satellite Archives William S. Hanson, Ioana A. Oltean, 2012-11-12 Historical archives of vertical photographs and satellite images acquired for other purposes, mainly declassified military reconnaissance, offer considerable potential for archaeological and historical landscape research. They provide a unique insight into the character of the landscape as it was over half a century ago, before the destructive impact of later 20th century development and intensive land use. They provide a high quality photographic record, not merely of the landscape at that time but offer the prospect of the better survival of remains reflecting its earlier history, whether manifest as earthworks, cropmarks or soilmarks. These various sources of imagery also provide an opportunity to examine from the air areas of Europe and beyond whose skies are still not open to traditional archaeological aerial reconnaissance. Tens of millions of such images are held in archives around the world but their research potential goes very largely untapped. A primary aim of this volume is to draw wider attention to the existence, scope and potential access to historical archival aerial and satellite photographs in order to encourage their use in a range of archaeological and landscape research. By drawing attention to this massive archival resource, providing examples of its successful application to archaeological landscape questions and offering advice how to access and utilise the resource, the volume seeks to bring this material to wider attention, demonstrate its huge potential for archaeology, encourage its further use and stimulate a new approach to archaeological survey and the study of landscape evolution internationally.

Landscapes Through the Lens David C. Cowley, Robin A. Standring, Matthew J. Abicht, 2010-11-11 This volume presents the rich but under-utilised and in parts inaccessible archival historic aerial imagery: traditional photographs and those captured from satellites for the exploration and management of cultural heritage. An unparalleled resource for archaeologists and all with an interest in landscapes, images spanning the second half of the 20th century provide an unrivalled means of documenting and understanding change and informing the study of the past. Case studies written by leading experts in their fields illustrate the applications of this imagery across a wide range of heritage issues, from prehistoric cultivation and settlement patterns to the impact of recent landscape change Contemporary environmental and land use issues are also dealt with in a volume that will be of interest to archaeologists historians geographers and those in related disciplines Conflict Landscapes and

Archaeology from Above Birger Stichelbaut, David Cowley, 2016-12-05 The study of conflict archaeology has developed rapidly over the last decade fuelled in equal measure by technological advances and creative analytical frameworks Nowhere is this truer than in the inter disciplinary fields of archaeological practice that combine traditional sources such as historical photographs and maps with 3D digital topographic data from Airborne Laser Scanning ALS and large scale geophysical prospection For twentieth century conflict landscapes and their surviving archaeological remains these developments have encouraged a shift from a site oriented approach towards landscape scaled research This volume brings together an wide range of perspectives setting traditional approaches that draw on historical and contemporary aerial photographs alongside cutting edge prospection techniques cross disciplinary analyses and innovative methods of presenting this material to audiences Essays from a range of disciplines archaeology history geography heritage and museum studies studying conflict landscapes across the globe throughout the twentieth century all draw on aerial and landscape perspectives to past conflicts and their legacy and the complex issues for heritage management Organized in four parts the first three sections take a broadly chronological approach exploring the use of aerial evidence to expand our understanding of the two World Wars and the Cold War The final section explores ways that the aerial perspective can be utilized to represent historical landscapes to a wide audience With case studies ranging from the Western Front to the Cold War Ireland to Russia this volume demonstrates how an aerial perspective can both support and challenge traditional archaeological and historical analysis providing an innovative new means of engaging with the material culture of conflict and commemoration Bodmin Moor:

An archaeological survey: Volume 1 Nicholas Johnson, Peter Rose, 2014-06-30 Year by year encroachment in the 20th century for cultivation or tree planting provided the stimulus for the most extensive survey ever undertaken of the archaeological monuments of Bodmin Moor a previously little disturbed landscape rich in surviving structural evidence of the many ways from the Bronze Age to the post medieval period in which people settled and exploited the Moor and its surroundings The survey is remarkable not only for the extent of the area examined but also for the number of monuments newly identified in the course of the work Supplementing the survey text are detailed line drawings plans aerial photographs and large scale maps

The British Isles Hugh Kearney, 2012-03-29 Hugh Kearney s classic account of the history of the British Isles from pre Roman times to the present is distinguished by its treatment of English history as part of a wider history of four nations Not only focusing on England it attempts to deal with the histories of Wales Ireland and Scotland in their own terms whilst recognising that they too have political religious and cultural divides This new edition endeavours to recognise and examine contemporary multi ethnic Britain and its implications for four nations history making it an invaluable case study for European nationhood of the past and present Thoroughly updated throughout to take into account recent social political and cultural changes within Britain and examine the rise of multi ethnic Britain this revised edition also contains a completely new set of illustrations including sixteen maps      Aerial Photography and Archaeology 2003 Jean Bourgeois,Marc Meganck,2005 This publication contains the selected proceedings of a conference devoted to the history of aerial photography Ghent 2003      Grand Canyon National Park (N.P.), Special Flight Rules Area in the Vicinity of Grand Canyon National Park, Actions to Substantially Restore Natural Quiet ,2011      London Plaques Derek Sumeray,John Sheppard,2011-08-20 London s buildings are dotted with commemorative plaques Many are the famous blue plaques indicating where a famous person was born lived stayed or if a significant event took place there or an earlier use of the site This book is a comprehensive gazetteer of all of London s plaques Using Derek Sumeray s classic book as a basis this thoroughly revised new edition arranges plaques alphabetically by area providing a text that is linked to London s geography and therefore of greater use to a resident or visitor wanting to explore the famous people and events commemorated in that area      Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 2010 United States. selection of archaeological sites and landscapes dating from between 500 000 years ago and the Roman conquest Timothy Darvill brings to life many of the familiar sites and monuments that prehistoric communities built and exposes to view many thousands of sites that simply cannot be seen at ground level Throughout the book he makes a unique application of social archaeology to the field of aerial photography Allies in Memory Sam Edwards,2015-03-02 A fresh perspective on World War II commemoration that identifies the central place of war memory in post 1945 transatlantic relations Practical Building Conservation ,2011 Glass and Glazing looks at the conservation of one of the most important building materials and its use in windows roofing and walling It considers the technological evolution of glass and glazing systems the processes causing deterioration and the practical application and long term implications of common conservation materials and methods as well as of alterations to improve performance Stonehenge John North,2007-09-10 Argues that Stonehenge s scientific purpose was to observe the setting midwinter sun and that astronomical observations made by the ancient Britons were as rational and methodical as they are today Tracing Your House History Gill Blanchard,2020-01-31 With its practical slant and focus on demystifying unfamiliar property documents this is the perfect introduction to tracing a house history Family Tree Magazine Anyone who wants to find out about the history of their house of their home needs to read this compact practical handbook Whether you live in a manor house or on a planned estate in a laborer s cottage a tied house a Victorian terrace a twentieth century council house or a converted warehouse this is the book for you In a series of concise information filled chapters Gill Blanchard shows you how to trace the history of your house or flat how to gain an insight into the lives of the people who lived in it before you and how to fit it into the wider history of your neighborhood A wealth of historical evidence is available in libraries archives and record offices in books and online and this is the ideal introduction to it Gill Blanchard explores these resources in depth explains their significance and directs the researcher to the most relevant and revealing aspects of them She makes the research process understandable accessible and fun and in the process she demystifies the sometimes obscure language and layout of the documents that researchers will come up against This book is more than a guide to researching the history of your house or a house of interest It is a font of interest if you are seeking to research and understand the social and domestic lives of people and their communities from early times Federation of Family History Societies Windmills in Sussex , Tourism Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Culture, Media and Sport Committee,2008 Incorporating HC 983 i session 2006 07 Planning for Tall Buildings Michael Short,2012-11-12 In a time of recession the challenge of building and planning for tall buildings has become even more complex the economics of development legislative and planning frameworks and the local politics of development must be navigated by those wishing to design and construct new tall buildings which fit within the fabric of their host cities This book is a timely contribution to the debate about new tall buildings and their role and effect on our cities It is divided into two main parts In part one the relationship between tall buildings and planning is outlined followed by an exploration of the impacts that construction of tall buildings can have It focuses in particular on the conservation debates that proposals for new tall buildings raise The first part ends with an analysis of the way in which planning strategies have evolved to deal with the unique consequences of tall buildings on their urban locations The second part of the book focuses on seven examples of medium sized cities dealing with planning and conservation issues and implications that arise from tall buildings These have been chosen to reflect a wide range of methods to either encourage or to control tall buildings that cities are deploying The case studies come from across the western world covering England Manchester Liverpool Newcastle and Birmingham Norway Oslo Ireland Dublin and Canada Vancouver and represent a broad spectrum of approaches to dealing with this issue In drawing together the experiences of these varied cities the book contributes to the ongoing debate about the role of the tall building in our cities their potential impacts and experiences of those who use and inhabit them The conclusions outline how cities should approach the strategic planning of tall buildings as well as how they should deal with the consequences of individual buildings particularly on the built heritage
