Creating Paradise Richard Wilson,2000-12-01 Building or rebuilding their houses was one of the main concerns of the English nobility and gentry some might say their greatest achievement This is the first book to look at the building of country houses as a whole Creating Paradise shows why owners embarked on building programmes often following the Grand Tour or excursions around other houses in England where they looked for architectural inspiration and assistance and how the building was actually done It deals not only with great houses including Holkham and Castle Howard but also the diversity of smaller ones such as Felbrigg and Dyrham and shows the cost not only of building but of decorating and furnishing houses and of making their gardens Creating Paradise is an important and original contribution to its subject and a highly readable account of the attitude of the English ruling class to its most important

Theodore

Hoppen, 2000-06-30 This the third volume to appear in the New Oxford History of England covers the period from the repeal of the Corn Laws to the dramatic failure of Gladstone's first Home Rule Bill In his magisterial study of the mid Victorian generation Theo Hoppen identifies three defining themes The first he calls established industrialism the growing acceptance that factory life and manufacturing had come to stay It was during these four decades that the balance of employment shifted irrevocably For the first time in history more people were employed in industry than worked on the land The second concerns the multiple national identities of the constituent parts of the United Kingdom Dr Hoppen's study of the histories of Ireland Scotland Wales and the Empire reveals the existence of a variety of particular and overlapping national traditions flourishing alongside the increasingly influential structure of the unitary state The third defining theme is that of interlocking spheres which the author uses to illuminate the formation of public culture in the period This he argues was generated not by a series of influences operating independently from each other but by a variety of intermeshed political economic scientific literary and artistic developments This original and authoritative book will define these pivotal forty years in British history for the next generation Charity and the London Hospitals, 1850-1898 Keir Waddington, 2000

Drawing on a comparative study of hospital records Charity and the London Hospitals investigates how and why Victorians contributed in order to show that benevolence was rarely amenable to a single form or reason Whilst charity remained central to the hospitals raison d'être philanthropy's contribution was modified at a financial and administrative level as hospitals shifted from being philanthropic to medical institutions Why this process occurred and the impact of professionalisation and scientific medicine are assessed BOOK JACKET
