Studies in English Pre-Romanesque and Romanesque Architecture Richard Gem, 2004 Trained as both an archaeologist and an art historian Richard Gem established his specialist interest in pre Romanesque and Romanesque architecture with his doctoral research at Cambridge University Since then he has researched published and lectured widely in this subject while holding posts in different fields of cultural resource management Dr Gem's earlier work aimed to establish an understanding of English architecture in the 11th century that would break away from the view that cultural development in this period could be simply explained in terms of whether buildings were constructed before or after the Norman Conquest He has taken a wide view of how cultural processes in England need to be seen in the context of broader European trends in order to understand both English architecture's indebtedness to the Continent and also what gives it its specific national character. His earlier papers applied this approach to the development of the Romanesque style of architecture in England through the course of the 11th century while more recently he has applied a similar approach to earlier centuries including the Carolingian period. Taking a broad view of cultural trends as his starting point he has always anchored his work on a detailed archaeological, historical and stylistic analysis of individual buildings before drawing conclusions. This publication includes Dr Gem's main work over a period of quarter of a century. Taken together these studies present an overview of the development of English Church architecture from the 7th century to the 12th.

English Romanesque Architecture Before the Conquest Sir Alfred William Clapham, 1964

Romanesque and the Past John McNeill, Richard Plant, 2024-11-01. The nineteen papers collected in this volume explore a notable phenomenon that of retrospection in the art and architecture of Romanesque Europe. They arise from a conference organized by the British Archaeological Association in 2010 and reflect its interest in how and why the past manifested itself in the visual culture of the 11th and 12th centuries. This took many forms from the casual re-use of ancient material to a specific desire to re-present or emulate earlier objects and buildings. Central to it is a concern for the revival of Roman and early medieval forms: spolia, selective quotation, archaism and the construction of histories. The individual essays presented here cover a wide range of topics and media: the significance of consecration ceremonies in the creation of architectural memory; the rise of pictorial concepts in 12th century chronicles; the creation of history in the Paris of Hugh of St Victor and the appeal of the works of Bernward of Hildesheim and of Hrabanus Maurus in the centuries after their deaths. There are studies of buildings and the ideological purpose behind them at Tarragona, Ripoll, Cluny, Pannonhalma, Hungary, La Roccella, Calabria and Old St Peter's; comparative studies of Trier, Villeneuve and Glastonbury and of Bury St Edmunds, Rievaulx and Canterbury; and wide-ranging papers on the tantalizing evidence for an engagement with an overseas past in Ireland, an Anglo-Saxon past in England and a Milanese past among the aisleless cruciform churches of Augustinian Europe. The volume concludes with an assessment of the very concept of Romanesque.

English Medieval Sculpture Arthur Gardner, 2011-08-11. First published in 1951, this volume provides a historical study of English sculpture during the medieval period.

English Romanesque Architecture Alfred William Clapham, 1930

The English and the Normans Hugh M. Thomas, 2003-04-10. Since the Anglo-Norman period itself the relations between the English and the Normans have formed a subject of lively debate For most of that time however complacency about the inevitability of assimilation and of the Anglicization of Normans after 1066 has ruled This book first challenges that complacency then goes on to provide the fullest explanation yet for why the two peoples merged and the Normans became English Drawing on anthropological theory the latest scholarship on Anglo Norman England and sources ranging from charters and legal documents to saints lives and romances it provides a complex exploration of ethnic relations on the levels of personal interaction cultural assimilation and the construction of identity As a result the work provides an important case study in pre modern ethnic relations that combines both old and new approaches and sheds new light on some of the most important developments in English history
