Cohen, 2018-06-05 Is globalization leading us toward a world of fewer and fewer currencies and consequently simplified monetary management Many specialists believe this is the case as the territorial monopolies national governments have long claimed over money appears to be eroding In The Future of Money Benjamin Cohen argues that this view which he calls the Contraction Contention is wrong Rigorously argued written with extraordinary clarity and thoroughly up to date this book demonstrates that the global population of currencies is set to expand greatly not contract making monetary governance more difficult not less At the book's core is an innovative theoretical model for understanding the strategic preferences of states in monetary management Should governments defend their traditional monetary sovereignty or should they seek some kind of regional consolidation of currencies The model offers two broad advances First whereas most scholarly work evaluates strategic options individually or in comparison to just one other alternative this model emphasizes the three dimensional nature of the decisions involved Second the model emphasizes degrees of currency regionalization as a central determinant of state preferences Cohen also systematically explores the role of the private sector as an alternative source of money The book concludes with two key policy proposals First fiscal policy should be resurrected as a tool of macroeconomic management to offset the present day erosion in the effectiveness of monetary policy Second the International Monetary Fund should more actively help coordinate the decentralized strategic decision making of governments The future of money will be perilous But by mapping out the alternative policies countries can follow The Future of Money shows it need not be chaotic

The Political Economy of the Eurozone in Central and Eastern Europe Krisztina Arató, Boglarka Koller, Anita Pelle, 2021-06-30 The idea for this volume came from the enigma that some Central and Eastern European CEE European Union EU member states have been keen to join the Eurozone while others have shown persistent reluctance Moreover the attitudes towards joining have seemingly not correlated with either the level of economic development or the time spent as part of the EU nor with any other rational reason such as the level of integration into the EU real economy or the level of trust in the EU on the part of the public Therefore at first sight the answer to the question why in why out remains rather unclear The attractiveness of the currency union has nevertheless not disappeared for the CEE countries Despite the Eurozone crisis of 2010 13 it was during that time that the Baltic states introduced the euro Then after a few years of inactivity Croatia and Bulgaria successfully applied for membership of the exchange rate mechanism in July 2020 amid the economic crisis caused by the coronavirus COVID 19 pandemic At the same time the three Visegrad countries still using their national currencies Poland Czechia and Hungary no longer have a target date to join the monetary union This volume aims to discuss these issues from horizontal aspects and through country studies with contributions from expert authors from or closely related to the CEE region
