Economy In Transition A System Of Models:

Economies in Transition Gerhard Gehrig, Władysław Welfe, 1993 Economies in Transition Gerhard

Gehrig, Władysław Welfe, 1993 It has been quite a challenge for econometricians to model economies in transition There is no textbook at hand to master that task Economic theory cannot be applied without adaptations to the characteristic change of a whole economic system Regression analysis taking into account past economic development only is of limited use for the econometrician Having econometric models at hand would be very helpful for an active economic policy to guide the transition process Various scenarios representing strategies could be simulated in their consequences to the economy The best alternative in respect to the government's objectives could be chosen This very situation has born the idea of co operation between Łódź and Frankfurt in 1990 There are problems of this kind in Poland and in Germany The German situation is somewhat better than that of Poland as a relatively small centrally planned economy is being united with a substantial social market economy taking over a lot of the burden of the former mismanagement Thus it might be possible to share the experience in modelling the united Germany and preparing forecasts with the Polish model builders In addition it would be profitable for both model establishing teams to link their models in order to improve the forecasting potential Moreover the Polish partner has a broad national and international experience in econometric model building which makes co operation smooth and fruitful His experience in modelling countries with a centrally planned economy would also help to master the transition problems Models and Applications of Chaos Theory in Modern Sciences Elhadj

Economic Development and the Division of Labor Xiaokai Yang, Jeffrey D. Sachs, 2008-04-15 This innovative new text from Jeffrey Sachs and Xiokai Yang introduces students to development economics from the perspectives of inframarginal analysis and marginal analysis The book demonstrates how the new found emphasis on inframarginal analysis has influenced a shift back to an interest in Classical Economics from Neoclassical Economics Inframarginal Analysis vs Marginal Analysis is presented as a consistent theoretical framework throughout Shows how the relationship of Inframarginal Analysis to Marginal Analysis has influenced the shift back to an interest in Classical Economics from Neoclassical Economics with regard to economic development

Allows economists to reduce their overall reliance on marginal analysis which may be less relevant to development economics than it is to the economics of development countries
Brings considerable analytic machinery to bear on important problems
A focus on institutions and transaction costs that is very relevant to development economics
Offers a thorough analysis of trade CHs 3 7 and macroeconomics CHs 16 19 both of which are not dealt with in depth by comparable textbooks

A Systemic Transition to Circular Economy Aldo Roberto Ometto, Joseph Sarkis, Steve Evans, 2024-03-29
The book will explore using multiple perspectives from multiple contributors two main aspects for circular economy CE business and technology B T systems and value perspectives
Going beyond a linear economic perspective the traditional perspective CE needs to develop intentional and integrated paths to help restore physical resources and regenerate the functions of natural and anthropic systems creating greater economic and social opportunities with environmentally positive outcomes
Whether this is feasible and possible within the context of CE and B T is something that will be central to the contributions made in this book
A major

objective of the book is to deliver practical and fundamental knowledge of B T CE insights combining a systems perspective and value creation for socio technical innovation leading to sustainable transitions and effective transformations Based on those key aspects the book is structured in two parts one from a more theoretical and conceptual basis in Part 1 and a more applied perspective in Part 2 The chapters in Part 1 are presented through the lens of business and systems transitions In Part 2 the chapters present the opportunities and the journeys from real case studies of companies engaged in circular business strategies processes practices and technologies
