The Egalitarian Moment D. A. Low, 1996 An account of the unsuccessful attempts in Asia and Africa to create egalitarian rural societies The egalitarian moment Donald Anthony Low, 1996 General histories of the twentieth century will have much to say about the establishment spread maintenance and sudden collapse of Soviet Communism This book outlines a major feature of twentieth century world history that arguably affected more people than the rise and fall of Soviet Communism It was the first to discuss as related developments the many attempts in Asia and Africa in the third quarter of the twentieth century to create egalitarian rural societies landlord abolition in Egypt India and Iran ujamaa in Tanzania land reform in Indonesia collectivization in China Vietnam and Ethiopia their failure and the differentiated rural regimes which despite landlord abolition remain there to this day The case studies include Egypt India the three East African countries Papua New Guinea Iran Thailand Malaysia Indonesia Ethiopia China and Vietnam The book highlights a major and hitherto disaggregated aspect of twentieth century world history South Asia and Africa After Independence Bernard Waites, 2012-01-17 Post colonial South Asia and Africa invite comparison along with their political boundaries they inherited from colonial regimes administrative languages a cluster of sovereign state institutions and modern economic nuclei When they became independent South Asian and African states were for all their diversity thrust into a common position in the international system and embarked on a common history as emergent non aligned developing nations This is the first book to offer a single volume comparative history of postcolonial South Asia and sub Saharan Africa in the first generation since independence South Asia and Africa After Independence draws together the political and economic history of these two regions assessing the colonial impact establishing breaks and continuities and highlighting their diversity and interplay Waites sets out a framework for analysing the first generation of post colonial history offering an interpretation of post colonialism as a historical phenomenon and provocatively challenging us to re think this term in relation to South Asian and African history This book is an important reference for the study of global world African and South Asian history The New Enclosure Brett Christophers, 2018-12-04 How public land has been stolen from us Much has been written about Britain's trailblazing post 1970s privatization program but the biggest privatization of them all has until now escaped scrutiny the privatization of land Since Margaret Thatcher took power in 1979 and hidden from the public eye about 10 per cent of the entire British land mass including some of its most valuable real estate has passed from public to private hands Forest land defence land health service land and above all else local authority land for farming and school sports for recreation and housing has been sold off en masse Why How And with what social economic and political consequences The New Enclosure provides the first ever study of this profoundly significant phenomenon situating it as a centrepiece of neoliberalism in Britain and as a successor programme to the original eighteenth century enclosures With more public land still slated for disposal the book identifies the stakes and asks what if anything can and should be done The Battle for Asia Mark T.

Berger,2013-10-18 The emergence of the Third World is generally traced to onset of the Cold War and decolonization in the 1940s and 1950s In the 1960s and 1970s the three worlds of development were central to the wider dynamics of the changing international order

By the 1980s Third Worldism had peaked entering a period of dramatic decline that paralleled the end of the Cold War. Into the 21st century the idea of a Third World and even the pursuit of some form of Third Worldism has continued to be advocated and debated. For some it has passed into history and may never have had as much substance as it was credited with while others seek to retain or recuperate the Third World and give Third Worldism contemporary relevance. Beginning with a comprehensive introduction this edited volume brings together a wide range of important contributions. Collectively they offer a powerful overview from a variety of angles of the history and contemporary significance of Third Worldism in international affairs. The question remains did the Third World exist what was it does it still have intellectual and political purchase or do we live in a global era that can be described as After the Third World. This book was previously published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly.

The Long Land War Jo Guldi, 2022-05-03 A definitive history of ideas about land redistribution allied political movements and their varied consequences around the world. An epic work of breathtaking scope and moral power The Long Land War offers the definitive account of the rise and fall of land rights around the world over the last 150 years. Matthew Desmond Pulitzer Prize winning author of Evicted Poverty and Profit in the American City Jo Guldi tells the story of a global struggle to bring food water and shelter to all. The book describes the results of state engineered land reform policies beginning in Ireland in 1881 until U S led interests and the World Bank effectively killed them off in 1974. The Long Land War provides a definitive narrative of land redistribution alongside an unflinching critique of its failures set against the background of the rise and fall of nationalism communism internationalism information technology and free market economics. In considering how we could make the earth livable for all she works out the important relationship between property ownership and justice on a changing planet.

Worldmaking After Empire Adom Getachew, 2020-04-28 Decolonization revolutionized the international order during the twentieth century. Yet standard histories that present the end of colonialism as an inevitable transition from a world of empires to one of nations a world in which self determination was synonymous with nation building obscure just how radical this change was. Drawing on the political thought of anticolonial intellectuals and statesmen such as Nnamdi Azikiwe W E B Du Bois George Padmore Kwame Nkrumah Eric Williams Michael Manley and Julius Nyerere this important new account of decolonization reveals the full extent of their unprecedented ambition to remake not only nations but the world. Adom Getachew shows that African American and Caribbean anticolonial nationalists were not solely or even primarily nation builders. Responding to the experience of racialized sovereign inequality dramatized by interwar Ethiopia and Liberia Black Atlantic thinkers and politicians challenged international racial hierarchy and articulated alternative visions of worldmaking. Seeking to create an egalitarian postimperial world they attempted to transcend legal political and economic hierarchies by securing a right to self determination within the newly founded United Nations constituting regional federations in Africa and the Caribbean and creating the New International Economic Order Using archival sources from Barbados Trinidad Ghana Switzerland and the United Kingdom Worldmaking after Empire recasts the history of decolonization reconsiders the failure of anticolonial nationalism and offers a new perspective on debates about today's international order

Migration and Inequality in Germany 1870-1913 Oliver Grant, 2005-10-06

Migration and Inequality in Germany 1870 1913 presents a new view of German history in the late nineteenth century Dr Grant argues that many of the problems of Imperial Germany were temporary ones produced by the strain of rapid industrialisation Drawing on the tools of development economics he argues that Germany passed through a labour surplus phase as described by the Lewis Model This period came to an end around 1900 creating more favourable conditions for political reform and social reconciliation But Germany's progress to full political and economic maturity was derailed at the outbreak of war in 1914 Dr Grant bases his argument on an analysis of the economic and demographic forces driving migration in nineteenth century Germany High rural urban migration led to the rapid expansion of German cities The main factors driving this were social and economic change in the countryside and the process of the demographic transition The release of surplus labour onto urban labour markets held back wage increases and led to an increase in inequality The German economy behaved in a way which seemed to bear out the predictions of Karl Marx and this contributed to the appeal of Marxist ideas and the rise of the social democratic vote However this was a temporary phase The labour surplus period was largely over by 1900 The rise in inequality which had begun in the 1820s came to an end and inequality began to fall Contrary to received wisdom Germany was not on the brink of a general socio economic crisis in 1914 instead it was moving away from one However the political system failed to take advantage of this opportunity and Germany's dependence on imported food and raw materials led to a strategic crisis which combined disastrously with internal political problems

Postcolonial Global Justice Shuk Ying Chan, 2025-08-19 A new account of global justice that recovers anticolonial thought for resisting a neocolonial age Politicians and activists today turn to the language of decolonization to call attention to such issues as cultural and linguistic decline exploitative foreign investment and global institutions dominated by superpowers But does anticolonial thought really provide a model for reimagining world politics The history of decolonization has not resulted in the liberating transformations that many envisioned In Postcolonial Global Justice Shuk Ying Chan proposes a new account of postcolonial global justice centered around the value of social equality Drawing on the thought of Aimé Césaire Frantz Fanon Kwame Nkrumah and Jawaharlal Nehru Chan argues that a central theme in anticolonial thought is the rejection of hierarchy and the embrace of equality These ideas from decolonization she suggests give us tools for critiquing contemporary global hierarchies and for rejecting postcolonial nationalism more concerned with policing its citizens than promoting their freedom and equality Following the wave of postcolonial state founding in the twentieth century many in the West saw decolonization as largely accomplished and yet global politics continue to feature hierarchies that resemble colonial relations Chan investigates these new and persistent colonial hierarchies across three areas of contemporary world politics international investment cultural imperialism and global governance Exploring the changes needed to move toward a new more equal postcolonial world order Chan offers a vision of global justice rooted in the unrealized egalitarian aspirations of anticolonial thinker activists prompting us to rethink what decolonization may mean today

Understanding the British Empire Ronald Hyam, 2010-05-20 Understanding the British Empire draws on a lifetime's research and reflection on the history of the British Empire by one of the senior figures in the field. Essays cover six key themes: the geopolitical and economic dynamics of empire; religion and ethics; imperial bureaucracy; the contribution of political leaders; the significance of sexuality; and the shaping of imperial historiography. A major new introductory chapter draws together the wider framework of Dr Hyam's studies, and several new chapters focus on lesser-known figures. Other chapters are revised versions of earlier papers reflecting some of the debates and controversies raised by the author's work, including the issue of sexual exploitation, the European intrusion into Africa, including the African response to missionaries, trusteeship, and Winston Churchill's imperial attitudes. Combining traditional archival research with newer forms of cultural exploration, this is an unusually wide-ranging approach to key aspects of empire.
