volumes by giving to each of the less civilized and influential nations a minute and extended history yet the true interest of learners would not be consulted by such a course To trace the progress of civilization and intellect with that degree of distinctness which is requisite in a course of historical instruction at school it is deemed sufficient so far as ancient history is concerned to study a clear and succinct history of Greece and Rome with such notices of the other ancient nations as will give a correct idea of their extent and importance the leading events and characters occurring in their annals and their relations with those two great states which were the chief depositories of power learning and refinement during the respective periods of their independence Such a course has been followed in this volume and it is hoped that the information which it comprises will enable the young student to acquire a correct idea of the earlier periods of history and to understand the allusions which he may meet with in a general course of literature to the great nations characters and events of antiquity About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Egypt, Greece, and Rome (Classic Reprint) Celia Richmond, 2017-12-20 Excerpt from Egypt Greece and Rome The series of World Literature Readers designed for use in Grades V IX aims to give a glimpse into the real life of the various nations of the world to open a gate upon a path which if the youthful explorer wills to follow it may lead him on into wide fields He who has learned to read is no longer a citizen of one age or one land but of all ages and all lands Through literature and through art he may lose the boundaries of his own meager experience and win his way into the thoughts ideals aspirations knowledge and visions of the best minds of all times and races the possessions of the entire human family To realize our world heritage we need to touch the beginnings of things in the folk tale and myth not only of our own people and land but of all peoples and lands we need companionship with the heroes of the human race not only the heroes of war and adventure but the heroes of our common life for the race as Hamilton Mabie says About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
