Fundamentals of Comparative Embryology of the Vertebrates John Gassner, 1949 Fundamentals of Comparative Embryology of the Vertebrates Alfred F. Huettner, 1953 Fundamentals of Comparative Embryology of the Vertebrates Alfred Francis Huettner, 1941 Fundamentals of Comparative Embryology of the Vertebrates Alfred Francis Huettner, 1948 Vertebrate Embryology Richard Marshall Eakin, 1964 Vertebrate Embryology Richard M. Eakin, 1978-03-14 The real Hans Spemann German embryologist 1869 1941 developed a concept of embryonic induction through his experiments on early amphibian embryos which demonstrated neural induction by the primary organizer and evocation of the lens by the optic vesicle For his discovery of the organizer he was awarded the Nobel Peace in Physiology and Medicine in 1935 while he was Professor of Zoology at Freiburg Germany In the twenties and early thirties Spemann's laboratory was a mecca for students and investigators entering the new field of experimental embryology An Atlas of Comparative Vertebrate Histology Donald B. McMillan, Richard James Harris, 2018-06-04 Atlas of Comparative Vertebrate Histology looks at the histology of a wide range of vertebrates representative of all the major classes and families with examples ranging from amphioxus to primates The authors focus their microscope on commonly seen vertebrates as well as non standard species such as lamprey hagfish dogfish skate rock bass cod river catfish toad amphiuma leopard and bull frog garter and brown snake Coturnix quail and cowbird The study of comparative histology in the vertebrates helps students and researchers alike understand how various groups have addressed similar problems opening doors to interesting research possibilities Not all vertebrates follow the mammalian model of tissue and organ structure When dealing with unique species we see some structures taken beyond their normal function Comparative histology allows us to understand the structural responses underlying the physiology unique to each vertebrate group Presents the histology of a wide range of vertebrates representative of all the major classes and families with examples ranging from amphioxus to primates Includes an image gallery with over 500 flat images and 50 virtual microscopy slides Contains electronic content features cross linking between text tables and the image gallery Early Embryology of the Chick, Fourth Edition Bradley M. Patten, 2008-08-01 Fourth Edition The Early Embryology of the Chick by Bradley M Patten Professor of Anatomy University of Michigan Medical School With 102 Illustrations containing 343 Figures A Laboratory Manual of Vertebrate Embryology Roberts Rugh, 1956 JT Wilson and the Fraternity of Duckmaloi Patricia Morison, 2019-12-01 In the 1890s four young scientists at Sydney University two Scots a Londoner and an Australian began sustained research into Australian native fauna for which each was awarded the FRS They all went on to pursue notable careers in the biological sciences concluding in London 46 8 and Cambridge This book follows their careers and enduring friendship exploring in detail the life of its senior member J T Wilson 1861 1945 who was professor of anatomy at Sydney University 1890 1920 and Cambridge 1920 1933 and had abiding interests in science philosophy education and military affairs The narrative is mainly concerned with issues of historical interest to scientists and medical educationists though some like Empire relations and the contribution of Scots to Australia's development will interest a wider readership. Many of the preoccupations of Wilson and his colleagues remain topical: the debate between biological science and religion; the struggle to interpret Darwin's theory without placing Homo sapiens at the top of an evolutionary tree; pure versus applied science; vocationalism versus scholarship in university education.

Atlas of Xenopus Development G. Bernardini, M. Prati, E. Bonetti, G. Scari, 2013-06-29. Developmental biology attracts scientists from many different areas of biology and the amphibian Xenopus holds a special place among the organisms studied as a model of vertebrate development. Until now no recently published atlas existed to aid researchers and students coming to the Xenopus embryo for the first time. The present book satisfies this need. With its synthesizing approach and its generous provision of beautiful scanning transmission and light microscopy images, this unique volume will be a standard reference not only for developmental biologists but for all students of embryology, histology and comparative anatomy.

Invertebrate Embryology and Reproduction Fatma El-Bawab, 2020-01-18. Invertebrate Embryology and Reproduction deals with the practical and theoretical objectives of the descriptive embryology of invertebrates along with discussions on reproduction in these groups of animals. It explains several morphological and anatomical expressions in the field and covers the embryology of invertebrate animals starting from the Protozoa to the Echinodermata, the Protochordate and Tunicates. These groups include economically important aquatic invertebrates such as crustaceans as well as medically important invertebrates and economic arthropods. Each chapter is preceded by the taxonomy of the discussed phylum and/or the species to enable the reader to locate the systematic position. Covers phylum definition, general characteristics, classification, reproduction, asexual reproduction, gametic reproduction, spawning, fertilization, development and embryogenesis. Includes recent findings in the area along with detailed figures and photos that illustrate important concepts. Brings together difficult to obtain research data from the field, not only in Egyptian libraries but globally and previously only found through specialized references, not widely available. Clarifies descriptions with striking photos and electron microscopical studies of different species.

Chemistry and Brain Development Rodolfo Paoletti, 2012-12-06 J Folch Pi Director of Scientific Research McLean Hospital Belmont Mass U S A The development of the central nervous system is possibly the most significant aspect of the growth of a mammal from embryo to adulthood The central nervous system is obviously the main repository not only of the species inherited functional characteristics but also of the process of individuation Whatever engrams constitute the basis of individual characteristics are laid down mainly in the central nervous system and especially the brain during its growth The chemical aspect of this process is clearly of great importance and the significance of its study should be self evident Nevertheless it is only one aspect of a parallel series of morphological physiological biochemical and psychological events which take place as an integrated process the final result of which is the transformation of the post embryonic nervous system into the functioning adult system It is imperative therefore that any study or description of the chemical events during the development of the CNS should be undertaken in full awareness of the concomitant morphological physiological and psychological events It is only against this multidisciplinary informational framework that the chemical events during development can be correctly interpreted and acquire their full significance With this in mind the introduction to this volume may best serve its purpose by describing briefly the morphological and physiological events that accompany the chemical aspect of development
