Ecology And Historical Materialism:

Ecology and Historical Materialism Jonathan Hughes, 2000-07-03 This book challenges the widely held view that Marxism is unable to deal adequately with environmental problems Jonathan Hughes considers the nature of environmental problems and the evaluative perspectives that may be brought to bear on them He examines Marx's critique of Malthus his method and his materialism interpreting the latter as a recognition of human dependence on nature Central to the book's argument is an interpretation of the development of the productive forces which takes account of the differing ecological impacts of different productive technologies while remaining consistent with the normative and explanatory roles that this concept plays within Marx's theory Turning finally to Marx's vision of a society founded on the communist principle to each according to his needs the author concludes that the underlying notion of human need is one whose satisfaction presupposes only a modest and ecologically feasible expansion of productive output

Marx and the Earth John Bellamy Foster, Paul Burkett, 2016-01-12 A decade and a half ago John Bellamy Foster and Paul Burkett introduced a new revolutionary understanding of the ecological foundations of Marx's thought demonstrating that Marx's concepts of the universal metabolism of nature social metabolism and metabolic rift prefigured much of modern systems ecology Ecological relations were shown to be central to Marx's critique of capitalism including his value analysis Now in Marx and the Earth Foster and Burkett expand on this analysis in the process of responding to recent ecosocialist criticisms of Marx The result is a full fledged anti critique pointing to the crucial roles that dialectics open system thermodynamics intrinsic value and aesthetic understandings played in the original Marxian critique holding out the possibility of a new red green synthesis

Marx and Nature P. Burkett, 1999-02-14 With Marx and Nature Paul Burkett reconstructs Marx's approach to nature society and environmental crisis While recognizing that production is structured by historically developed relations among producers Marx also insists that production as a social and material process is shaped and constrained by natural conditions including the natural condition of human bodily existence Marx's value analysis places him squarely in the camp of the growing number of ecological theorists questioning the ability of monetary and market based calculations to adequately represent the natural conditions of human production and development

Approaches to History Sabyasachi Bhattacharya, 2011 History as a social science is arguably more self reflective than associated disciplines in that family Other social scientists seem to see little reason to look beyond the paradigm they are developing in the present times Historians on the other hand tend to depend on the cumulative process of the development of their craft and the fund of accumulated knowledge Yet while this is acknowledged in the practice of research Historiography in itself as a subject of study has rarely found its place in the syllabi of Indian universities Knowledge of Historiography is taken for granted when a scholar plunges into research In an attempt to address this lacuna the Indian Council of Historical Research ICHR has planned a series of volumes on Historiography comprising articles by subject specialists commissioned by the ICHR The first volume in the series Approaches to History Essays in Indian Historiography brings to the readers the first fruits of that endeavour While the essays encompass areas of research presently at the frontiers of new research scholars will also find the bibliographies accompanying the essays of significant appeal
