Hard Boiled:

Hard-boiled Masculinities Christopher Breu, 2005 The persona of the American male in the period between the two world wars was characterized by physical strength emotional detachment aggressive behavior and an amoral worldview This ideal of a hard boiled masculinity can be seen in the pages and even more vividly on the covers of magazines such as Black Mask which shifted from Victorian influenced depictions of men in top hats and mustaches in the early 1920s to the portrayal of much more overtly violent and muscular men Looking closely at this transformation Christopher Breu offers a complex account of how and why hard boiled masculinity emerged during an unsettled time of increased urbanization and tenuous peace and traces the changes in its cultural conception as it moved back and forth across the divide between high and low culture as well as the color line that bifurcated American society Examining the work of Ernest Hemingway Dashiell Hammett Chester Himes and William Faulkner as well as many lesser known writers for the hypermasculine pulp magazines of the 1920s and 1930s Breu illustrates how the tough male was a product of cultural fantasy one that shored up gender and racial stereotypes as a way of lashing out at the destabilizing effects of capitalism and social transformation Christopher Breu is assistant professor of English at Illinois State University Hard-Boiled Erin Smith, 2010-07-07 An examination of the culture that produced and supported pulp fiction Cracking the Hard-Boiled Detective Lewis D. Hardboiled Hollywood Jan-Christoph Prüfer, 2007-04-11 Inhaltsangabe Abstract I have chosen the two films that will be subjected to examination in this work because they have a lot in common at first glance Their scripts are based on crime novels of the so called hardboiled school a stream in American popular literature that developed after the First World War They were both filmed in the 1940s and produced by the Warner Brothers studio No scholarly or critical discussion of the Hollywood genre of film noir is complete without them and they both feature Humphrey Bogart as the main actor in the role of the private eye What I hope to show this thesis is not only that these films despite the similarities outlined above are far from being basically the same movies but additionally to give convincing reasons why this is the case One of these reasons will be the evaluation of the fact that the literary private eyes that the heroes of John Huston's The Maltese Falcon 1941 and Howard Hawks' The Big Sleep 1946 are based on already differ in their character concept and that these differences correspondingly found their way to the screen in the adaptations A further decisive point for measuring the differences between the films is that I will assume that these movies were financial successes because they reflected the times that they were made in and thus gave movie audiences what they wanted to see That movies are products of their time is a fact as blatant as it is true yet one that has repeatedly been called into question in the past The Hollywood genre system the directors the financial interests of the movie making industry have all been pointed out as shaping a movie and its content rather than some mysterious connection between a film and the popular mind the convictions dreams and anxieties of the masses commonly referred to as a people's culture But although I do not doubt the significance of the factors mentioned above I agree with Albert Quart and Leonard Auster who pointed out that filmmakers are human beings and parts of their societies and that consequently they are touched by the same tensions and fantasies and their profits are usually dependent on their ability to guess popular feelings Will Wright similarly argued that the popular success of a movie can be considered as evidence that it struck a nerve with contemporary audiences as stars and promotion campaigns promising action filled escapist fantasies alone have frequently turned out to be insufficient

Genre and Hollywood Steve Neale, 2005-06-20 Genre and Hollywood provides a comprehensive introduction to the study of genre In this important new book Steve Neale discusses all the major concepts theories and accounts of Hollywood and genre as well as the key genres which theorists have written about from horror to the Western He also puts forward new arguments about the importance of genre in understanding Hollywood cinema Neale takes issue with much genre criticism and genre theory which has provided only a partial and misleading account of Hollywood's output He calls for broader and more flexible conceptions of genre and genres for more attention to be paid to the discourses and practices of Hollywood itself for the nature and range of Hollywood's films to be looked at in more detail and for any assessment of the social and cultural significance of Hollywood's genres to take account of industrial factors In detailed revisionist accounts of two major genres film noir and melodrama Neale argues that genre remains an important and productive means of thinking about both New and old Hollywood its history its audiences and its films

Crime Fiction John Scaggs, 2005 Provides a lively introduction to what is both a wide ranging and hugely popular literary genre Accessible and clear this comprehensive overview is the essential guide for all those studying crime fiction

William Reynolds, Elizabeth Ann Trembley, 1994 The mechanistic age of the twentieth century has required a mechanized medium for expression the production of film dependent from the start on machines such as cameras projectors lights and now more heavily reliant on computers sensitive films miniaturization and sophisticated sound recording devices has flowered in this century not only as a means of popular entertainment but as a critically acclaimed art form These essays highlight true cinematic adaptations as completely different products from films based loosely on the gimmick or plot or character of a certain fiction

Mystery, Violence, and Popular Culture John G. Cawelti, 2004 For two years Philip Gambone traveled the length and breadth of the United States talking candidly with LGBTQ people about their lives In addition to interviews from David Sedaris George Takei Barney Frank and Tammy Baldwin Travels in a Gay Nation brings us lesser known voices a retired Naval officer a transgender scholar and drag king a Princeton philosopher two opera sopranos who happen to be lovers an indie rock musician the founder of a gay frat house and a pair of Vermont garden designers In this age when contemporary gay America is still coming under attack Gambone captures the humanity of each individual For some their identity as a sexual minority is crucial to their life's work for others it has been less so perhaps even irrelevant But whether splashy or quiet center stage or behind the scenes Gambone's subjects have managed despite facing ignorance fear hatred intolerance injustice violence ridicule or just plain indifference to construct passionate inspiring lives Finalist Foreword Magazine's Anthology of the Year Outstanding Book in the High School Category selected by the American Association of School Libraries Best Book in Special Interest Category selected by the Public Library Association

Calling All Cars Kathleen Battles, Calling All Cars shows how radio played a key role in an emerging form of policing during the turbulent years of the Depression Until this time popular culture had characterized the gangster as hero but radio crime dramas worked against this attitude and were ultimately successful in making heroes out of law enforcement officers Through close analysis of radio programming of the era and the production of true crime docudramas Kathleen Battles argues that radio was a significant site for overhauling the dismal public image of policing However it was not simply the elevation of the perception of police that was at stake Using radio reformers sought to control the symbolic terrain through which citizens encountered the police and it became a medium to promote a positive meaning and purpose for policing For example Battles connects the apprehension of criminals by a dragnet with the idea of using the radio network to both publicize this activity and make it popular with citizens The first book to systematically address the development of crime dramas during the golden age of radio Calling All Cars explores an important irony the intimacy of the newest technology of the time helped create an intimate authority the police as the appropriate force for control over the citizenry The Cambridge Companion to American Crime Fiction Catherine Ross Nickerson, 2010-07-08 This Companion examines the range of American crime fiction from execution sermons of the Colonial era to television programmes like The Sopranos
