Mitchell,2005-08-26 Reflections on architecture and the exchange of information in the spaces and places of the city from the necessity of skyscrapers in an age of Web sites to cities as talent magnets from architectural bling to the neo minimalism of the new MoMA The meaning of a message says William Mitchell depends on the context of its reception Shouting fire in a crowded theater produces a dramatically different effect from barking the same word to a squad of soldiers with guns he observes In Placing Words Mitchell looks at the ways in which urban spaces and places provide settings for communication and at how they conduct complex flows of information through the twenty first century city Cities participate in the production of meaning by providing places populated with objects for words to refer to Inscriptions on these objects labels billboards newspapers graffiti provide another layer of meaning And today the flow of digital information from one device to another in the urban scene creates a digital network that also exists in physical space Placing Words examines this emerging system of spaces flows and practices in a series of short essays snapshots of the city in the twenty first century Mitchell questions the necessity of flashy downtown office towers in an age of corporate Web sites He casts the shocked and awed Baghdad as a contemporary Guernica He describes architectural makeovers throughout history listing Le Corbusier's Five Points of difference between new and old architecture and he discusses the architecture of Manolo Blahniks He pens an open letter to the Secretary of Defense recommending architectural features to include in torture chambers He compares Baudelaire the Parisian flaneur to Spiderman the Manhattan traceur He describes the iPod like galleries of the renovated MoMA and he recognizes the camera phone as the latest step in a process of image mobilization that began when artists stopped painting on walls and began making pictures on small pieces of wood canvas or paper The endless flow of information he makes clear is not only more pervasive and efficient than ever it is also generating new cultural complexities

Extreme Weather and Global Media Julia Leyda,Diane Negra,2015-06-05 In the two decades bracketing the turn of the millennium large scale weather disasters have been inevitably constructed as media events As such they challenge the meaning of concepts such as identity and citizenship for both locally affected populations and widespread spectator communities This timely collection pinpoints the features of an often overlooked yet rapidly expanding category of global media and analyzes both its forms and functions Specifically contributors argue that the intense promotion and consumption of extreme weather events takes up the slack for the public conversations society is not having about the environment and the feeling of powerlessness that accompanies the realization that anthropogenic climate change has now reached a point of no return Incorporating a range of case studies of extreme weather mediation in India the UK Germany Sweden the US and Japan and exploring recent and ongoing disasters such as Superstorm Sandy the Fukushima nuclear crisis flooding in Germany and heat waves in the UK Extreme Weather and Global Media generates valuable inquiry into the representational and social characteristics of the new culture of extreme weather

Fisherman s Wharf and Cannery Row to the nearby areas of Pacific Grove and Salinas Brown includes various travel strategies including Pacific Coast Highway Tour and Wildlife Tour Brown covers the most popular sights Monterey Bay Aquarium Big Sur Santa Cruz Beach Boardwalk and Carmel Valley among others Complete with expert tips on the finest art galleries and boutiques where to spot sea otters and how to explore the maritime history of the shore Moon Monterey Carmel gives travelers the tools they need to create a more personal and memorable experience     The Literary Beach Carsten Meiner,Katrine Helene Andersen,2024-05-08 As a geo historical place the beach integrates a variety of characteristics and functions so multiple that they tend to contradict each other The beach is both a place of work and trade but also of leisure it is both a place of therapy and health but also of migration war and death it is a place of mass tourism and boredom but also the place of experiencing the Other it is a public place but also an uncivilized and desolate place This book studies the literary representation of the beach from ancient Greek literature up until today drawing on English French Italian American and Spanish literatures from various periods and genres and presenting multiple ways of comparing and understanding literary beaches as a ubiquitous literary phenomenon It demonstrates how the literary beach as a both geo historical place and as an aesthetic literary commonplace has been a constant and privileged resource for the analysis of more general existential sociological and moral problems This is the case when for instance the Tahitian beach becomes the place of the already modern in Stevenson s tales or when the Italian beach becomes a question of modern feminism in Ferrante In this sense literature expands the local or national beach by articulating its transnational complexities     Who's who in Australia ,2007
