Research for the Developing World Bruce Currie-Alder, 2015-10-08 Research for the developing world can generate evidence on the effectiveness of foreign aid invent new technologies that serve poor people and strengthen research capabilities in poor countries How do countries determine which of these policy goals to pursue Examining the United Kingdom Canada and Australia reveals how each country established a unique approach to research funding Programs and grantmaking evolved in response to various expectations across government tempered by the need to remain credible in the scientific community This book explores the histories of the UK Department for International Development DFID Canada's International Development Research Centre IDRC and the Australian Centre for International Agricultural Research ACIAR Looking back changes in research governance encouraged a shift towards whole of government priorities shorter timeframes for realizing results and performance predicated on academic productivity and research impact Whereas funders used to encourage small is beautiful with local experiments in development today the emphasis is on getting to scale delivering innovation through self financing models Looking forward research for the developing world is fading as part of development assistance yet rising as collaboration on common global challenges Funders are adopting new definitions of performance and actively shaping policy to connect science and international development Leaders are brokering partnerships that connect research governance at home and abroad bridging the incentives towards academic productivity and research impact In short the future of research for the developing world is moving from foreign aid to science diplomacy

British Foreign and Defence Policy Since 1945 Robert Self, 2010-06-23 Foreign policy has dominated successive governments time in office and cast a consistently long shadow over British politics in the period since 1945 Robert Self provides a readable and incisive assessment of the key issues and events from the retreat from empire through the cold war period to Humanitarian Intervention and the debacle in Iraq

Donors, Democracy and Development in Africa Mark Simpson, 2024-12-07 Uganda Ethiopia and Rwanda have figured prominently in the post Cold War relations between Western donors and Sub Saharan Africa Their new leaders were embraced by Western countries as the antithesis of former Cold War era African strongmen and their countries became donor darlings benefitting from regular and significant inflows of Western development assistance To the dismay of African democracy activists and human rights defenders such aid enabled the regimes in these countries to strengthen the repressive political and economic governance systems over which they preside Using a multi disciplinary approach this book examines the role of Western development assistance in supporting these authoritarian African regimes It connects changing Western donor policies and priorities to developments within the three African countries to the past of these ruling parties as armed liberation movements to wider regional and global political economic and strategic shifts and highlights the skillful management by Kampala Addis Ababa and Kigali of Western aid and international aid architecture to ensure regime preservation

DFID's performance in 2008-09 and the 2009 White Paper

Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: International Development Committee, 2010-03-11 DFID is right to focus more resources on fragile states if global poverty reduction goals are to be met However this report highlights a number of concerns about DFID's capacity to meet this and other new policy directions set out in the 2009 White Paper Cm 7656 ISBN 9780101765626 based on analysis of the Department's performance in 2008 09 the Department's annual report 2008 09 published as HC 867 I II ISBN 9780102962154 Climate change another key White Paper focus area threatens progress on poverty reduction and will hit the poorest people first and hardest The outcome of the Copenhagen Conference in December 2009 was disappointing and real progress needs to be made before the next conference at the end of this year The White Paper also indicates that DFID will channel more funding through multilateral organisations including the EU the UN and the World Bank This offers the prospect of more coordinated delivery of aid but only if these bodies increase their effectiveness and their poverty focus The report also argues for speedier reform of the governance of the international financial institutions The recession has had a significant impact on developing countries It is estimated that an additional 90 million people will be affected by poverty as a combined result of the global food financial and fuel crises over the last few years Donors including the UK have responded and have sought to identify specific needs in developing countries though many donors are failing to meet the aid commitments they have already made War and Conflict in Africa Paul D.

Williams, 2013-04-26 After the Cold War Africa earned the dubious distinction of being the world's most bloody continent But how can we explain this proliferation of armed conflicts What caused them and what were their main characteristics And what did the world's governments do to stop them In this fully revised and updated second edition of his popular text Paul Williams offers an in depth and wide ranging assessment of more than six hundred armed conflicts which took place in Africa from 1990 to the present day from the continental catastrophe in the Great Lakes region to the sprawling conflicts across the Sahel and the web of wars in the Horn of Africa Taking a broad comparative approach to examine the political contexts in which these wars occurred he explores the major patterns of organized violence the key ingredients that provoked them and the major international responses undertaken to deliver lasting peace Part I Contexts provides an overview of the most important attempts to measure the number scale and location of Africa's armed conflicts and provides a conceptual and political sketch of the terrain of struggle upon which these wars were waged Part II Ingredients analyses the role of five widely debated features of Africa's wars the dynamics of neopatrimonial systems of governance the construction and manipulation of ethnic identities questions of sovereignty and self determination as well as the impact of natural resources and religion Part III Responses discusses four major international reactions to Africa's wars attempts to build a new institutional architecture to help promote peace and security on the continent this architecture's two main policy instruments peacemaking initiatives and peace operations and efforts to develop the continent War and Conflict in Africa will be essential reading for all students of international peace and security studies as well as Africa's international relations Blair's

Successful War Andrew M. Dorman, 2016-04-08 Andrew Dorman introduces Sierra Leone as Blair's second great military adventure after Kosovo and the first he undertook on his own. It is tied to Blair's 1999 Chicago speech on the Doctrine of the International Community, his move towards humanitarianism and the impact of the Kosovo experience. The book links this move with the rise of cosmopolitan militaries and the increasing involvement of Western forces in humanitarian operations and their impact on the international system. Furthermore, it places it within the context of defence transformation and the emerging Western expeditionary capabilities, in particular the European Union's new battle group concept and developments in concepts such as Network Centric Warfare and Networked Enabled Capability. Examining the whole campaign and considering the impact on the Blair Government, this book will prove to be a key reader on the topic. Griffiths, 2019-08-09 A study of Botswana's dual face of prosperity and poverty and that relates to its land use policies. Transformations on the Ground considers the ways in which power in all its forms, local, international, legal, familial, affects the collision of global with local concerns over access to land and control over its use. In Botswana's struggle to access international economies, few resources are as fundamental and fraught as control over land. Cultivating Development David Mosse, 2004-11-20 What if development agencies and researchers are not driven by policy Suppose that the things that make for good policy policy that legitimises and mobilises political support in reality make it impossible to implement By focusing in detail on the unfolding activities of a development project in western India over more than ten years as it falls under different policy regimes this book takes a close look at the relationship between policy and practice in development David Mosse shows how the actions of development workers are shaped by the exigencies of organisations and the need to maintain relationships rather than by policy but also that development actors work hardest of all to maintain coherent representations of their actions as instances of authorised policy Raising unfamiliar questions Mosse provides a rare self critical reflection on practice while refusing to endorse current post modern dismissal of development
