Elusive Culture Schooling Race Identity In Global Times:

Critical Approaches Toward a Cosmopolitan Education Sandra R. Schecter, Carl E. James, 2021-08-29 This book aims to reconceptualize teaching and learning in spaces with diverse populations of young people Chapters focus on the schooling experiences and social and cultural adaptation issues of individuals who through the meaning that they assign to their lived experiences ascribe to multiple identity qualifiers Contributors explore the impact of this cosmopolitan awareness on students educators and educational institutions presenting issues such as curricular concerns around civic engagement individual subjectivity versus social identity and the convergence of context specific policy and teaching environments on global dynamics in education reform An emphasis on this understanding promises to better equip educators and policy makers to plan instructional approaches and devise pedagogic resources that serve the needs and career aspirations of an expanding cohort of multifaceted learners

Exploring Social Justice Elizabeth Gould, June Countryman, Charlene Morton, Leslie Stewart Rose, 2009-09-15 The twenty seven contributors to this book are professors teachers and students representing all parts of Canada as well as the USA Brazil Norway Finland and South Africa They wrestle with the meaning and practice of social justice in and through music education

Conceptions of Culture Thomas E. Wren, 2012-07-16 The concept of culture stands clearly but unsteadily at the heart of multicultural education This book provides a systematic in depth understanding of the role that culture plays in the massive literature of multicultural education as multiple and antithetical definitions of culture exist The book also shows multicultural educators how to discern the definition used in any particular book or article Thomas Wren deploys methods and concepts from philosophy and the social sciences to provide an analytic framework within which the history and current state of culture theory can be understood both for its own sake and for its educational significance Although the book is full of theory it is not a theoretical book in the usual sense It is a road map accompanied by the related theoretical information and tools that graduate students and faculty need to 1 navigate the complex terrain of multicultural education literature 2 apply the book s analytical framework to that literature and to their own future practice and 3 anticipate the social changes and accompanying conceptual changes in our notions of culture that are now occurring as part of the cultural hybridity of today s students

War or Common Cause? Kimberly Anderson, 2009-01-01 This book on bilingual education policy represents a multidimensional and longitudinal study of policy processes as they play out on the ground a single school in Los Angeles and over time both within the same school and also within the state of Georgia In order to reconstruct this complex policy process Anderson impressively marshals a great variety of forms of discourse Most of this discourse of course comes from overheard discussions and spontaneous interviews conducted at a particular school the voices of teachers and administrators Such discourse forms the heart of her ethnographic findings Yet Anderson also brings an ethnographer s eye to national and regional debates as they are conducted and represented in different forms of media especially newspapers and magazines She then uses the key theoretical concept of articulation to conceptually link these media representations with local school discourse The result is an illuminating account of how everyday debates at a particular school and media debates occurring more broadly mutually inform one another

Religion in Multicultural Education Farideh Salili,Rumjahn Hoosain,2006-05-01 The National Association for Multicultural Education in Washington D C listed a number of issues that the school curriculum should address with reference to multicultural education including racism sexism classism linguisticism ablism ageism heterosexism and religious intolerance It is noteworthy that of all these issues religion is about the only one that throughout history people are willing to die for although whether what is at issue is really religion or other things such as territory is another matter It is also interesting that all the others have isms in their names but religious issues are characterized by intolerance Perhaps we should try to understand this intolerance and look at what steps might help to alleviate it However while intolerance might seem a simple thing understanding what is behind it and how it plays such a crucial role in religion requires what we refer to in the Introduction chapter as a multifaceted approach at multiple levels It is not enough just to try to dispel stereotypes of followers of other religions or to point out commonalities in world religions We should for example try to understand and appreciate how adherents of other religions try to answer questions regarding their adaptation to the contemporary environment It is through understanding how different religions coexist side by side at various levels that we truly come to learn about religion in multicultural education

Adolescents and Online Fan Fiction Rebecca W. Black,2008 This book presents an ethnographic and discourse analytic study of a highly popular online fan fiction writing space Its analyses highlight the range of sophisticated literacy practices that English language learning youth engage in through their fan related activities Discussion also centers on how opportunities for language socialization literacy and identity development converge and diverge between academic settings and informal learning contexts such as fan fiction sites

Community Fieldwork in Teacher Education Heidi L Hallman,Melanie Burdick,2015-04-10 In teacher education field work in community based spaces including foster homes and programs for homeless youth is frequently contrasted with traditional field experiences in classroom settings where beginning teachers are immediately introduced to teacher centered models of instruction This volume works against such a model presenting a counter narrative of new teachers understanding of the act of teaching By exploring their work with at risk youth in community based sites the authors uncover how non traditional spaces for teaching and learning have the potential to open new doors for reimagining the teaching act and teacher identity This volume examines how prospective teachers have used writing within unconventional spaces as catalysts for considering what it means to become a teacher as well as how the work of teaching can be conceptualized It unites the practical aspects of field work and with theoretical conceptions of teaching and envisions how the work and the definition of teaching can be broadened

Color in the Classroom Zoe Burkholder, 2011-10-05 Between the turn of the twentieth century and the Brown v Board of Education decision in 1954 the way that American schools taught about race changed dramatically This transformation was engineered by the nation s most prominent anthropologists including Franz Boas Ruth Benedict and Margaret Mead during World War II Inspired by scientific racism in Nazi Germany

these activist scholars decided that the best way to fight racial prejudice was to teach what they saw as the truth about race in the institution that had the power to do the most good American schools Anthropologists created lesson plans lectures courses and pamphlets designed to revise what they called the race concept in American education They believed that if teachers presented race in scientific and egalitarian terms conveying human diversity as learned habits of culture rather than innate characteristics American citizens would become less racist Although nearly forgotten today this educational reform movement represents an important component of early civil rights activism that emerged alongside the domestic and global tensions of wartime Drawing on hundreds of first hand accounts written by teachers nationwide Zo Burkholder traces the influence of this anthropological activism on the way that teachers understood spoke and taught about race She explains how and why teachers readily understood certain theoretical concepts such as the division of race into three main categories while they struggled to make sense of more complex models of cultural diversity and structural inequality As they translated theories into practice teachers crafted an educational discourse on race that differed significantly from the definition of race produced by scientists at mid century Schoolteachers and their approach to race were put into the spotlight with the Brown v Board of Education case but the belief that racially integrated schools would eradicate racism in the next generation and eliminate the need for discussion of racial inequality long predated this Discussions of race in the classroom were silenced during the early Cold War until a new generation of antiracist multicultural educators emerged in the 1970s
