Hamish Ion, 1990 The influx of Protestant missionaries from Britain to Japan Korea and Taiwan was an integral part of the British presence in East Asia from 1865 to 1945 Ion draws on both British and Japanese sources to examine the life work and attitudes of the British missionaries women and men who ventured far from their homeland to preach the gospel He explores the role played by British Protestants as both Christian missionaries and informal ambassadors of their own country and civilization Through their educational social and medical work the missionaries helped introduce Western ideas and social pursuits which in turn affected different facets of society and culture in Japan Korea and Taiwan The study illustrates how the British missionaries intent to introduce Christianity was affected by the response of the East Asians to Western ideas In describing the high drama of the British missionary movement's pioneering days in the late nineteenth century to its persecution during the late 1930s Ion casts light on a particular yet important aspect of the changing tides of Anglo Japanese relations This book will ably complement his previous study of Canadian missionaries in East Asia during the same period Chosen as one of the 15 outstanding books of 1993 for mission studies by the International Bulletin of Missionary Research

History Education and International Relations Hirano Mutsumi, 2009-02-12 This is the first in depth study to examine the implications of history education in the context of international relations interstate and transnational focusing on Japanese textbooks as the principal case study The author argues that despite a widespread recognition that our grasp of history has some relevance to our views and attitudes towards foreign countries and peoples ergo ultimately its impact on national policy there appears to be little coherent discussion of such a significant topic and its practical applications in the field of International Relations This study therefore develops a conceptual framework and directs attention to the factors which predetermine the perceptions and attitudes of the public and policy makers and in doing so searches for the roots of their world view The book addresses the following issues Government Influence on the Domestic Educational Environment The Domestic Environment and its Interaction with the External Environment History Education in Practice A case of Japan The Japanese History Textbook Disputes in the Asian Context Parts I and II Twenty five Years On The Task of Coming to Terms with the Past

Medicine and Modern Warfare , 2016-08-29 After years at the margins of medical history the relationship between war and medicine is at last beginning to move centre stage The essays in this volume focus on one important aspect of that relationship the practice and development of medicine within the armed forces from the late nineteenth century through to the end of the Second World War During this crucial period medicine came to occupy an important position in military life especially during the two world wars when manpower was at a premium Good medical provisions were vital to the conservation of manpower protecting servicemen from disease and returning the sick and wounded to duty in the shortest possible time A detailed knowledge of the serviceman s mind and body enabled the authorities to calculate and standardise rations training and disciplinary procedures Spanning the laboratory and the battlefield and covering a range of national contexts the essays in this volume provide valuable insights into different national styles and priorities They also examine the relationship between medical personnel and the armed forces as a whole by looking at such matters as the prevention of disease the treatment of psychiatric casualties and the development of medical science The volume as a whole demonstrates that medicine became an increasingly important part of military life in the era of modern warfare and suggests new avenues and approaches for future study
