Paranthropology: Anthropological Approaches to the Paranormal Edited by Jack Hunter, 2012-06-30 We are living in a complicated period in relation to our understanding of extraordinary phenomena Naive materialist approaches are more assertive than ever in anthropology and in the world more generally At the same time the taboos against admitting to the reality of the paranormal are weakening There is a growing body of writing which takes the paranormal and extraordinary seriously while bringing to it the same academic standards that any other subject matter would require This is a valuable and important development and it helps open the way to new modes of understanding in the sciences and social sciences that will not reject scientific rationality but expand that rationality so as to include more of the world of human experience The articles in this Paranthropology reader provide important clues and suggestions along with rigorous argument to help us in exploring what is likely to be a major area of anthropological engagement in coming years Dr Geoffrey Samuel Cardiff University Transpersonal Ecosophy, Vol. 1: Theory, Methods and Clinical Assessments Mark A. Schroll, 2016-01-24 The image on the cover of this book represents the idea that brain state alterations at sacred sites allow us to re experience memories that are woven into the morphogenetic fields of that place an idea that originates with Paul Devereux s empirical enquiry into dreams at sacred sites in Wales and England This books examines how this investigation provides us with a new way of understanding consciousness and a new direction toward a reconciliation of the divorce between matter and spirit We explore the work of David Lukoff and Stanislov and Christina Grof the connections between the varieties of transformative experience in dream studies ecopsychology transpersonal psychology and the anthropology of consciousness as well as the overlap between David Bohm s interpretation of quantum theory and Rupert Sheldrake s hypothesis of formative causation

Olupona, 2014-02-14 What are African religions African Religions A Very Short Introduction answers this question by examining primarily indigenous religious traditions on the African continent as well as exploring Christianity and Islam It focuses on the diversity of ethnic groups languages cultures and worldviews emphasizing the continent s regional diversity Olupona examines a wide range of African religious traditions on their own terms and in their social cultural and political contexts For example the book moves beyond ethnographic descriptions and interpretations of core beliefs and practices to look at how African religion has engaged issues of socioeconomic development and power relations Olupona examines the myths and sacred stories about the origins of the universe that define ethnic groups and national identities throughout Africa. He also discusses spiritual agents in the African cosmos such as God, spirits and ancestors. In addition to myths and deities, Olupona focuses on the people central to African religions including medicine men and women, rainmakers, witches, magicians and divine kings and how they serve as authority figures and intermediaries between the social world and the cosmic realm. African Religions: A Very Short Introduction discusses a wide variety of religious practices including music and dance, calendrical rituals and festivals, celebrations for the gods' birthdays and rituals accompanying stages of life such as birth, puberty, marriage, elderhood and death. In addition to exploring indigenous religions, Olupona examines the ways Islam and Christianity as outside traditions encountered indigenous African religion. He shows how these incoming faith traditions altered the face and the future of indigenous African religions as well as how indigenous religions shaped two world religions in Africa and the diaspora. Olupona draws on archaeological and historical sources as well as ethnographic materials based on fieldwork. He shows that African religions are not static traditions but have responded to changes within their local communities and to fluxes caused by outside influences and spread with diaspora and migration. Mathematics Elsewhere

Marcia Ascher, 2018-06-05. Mathematics Elsewhere is a fascinating and important contribution to a global view of mathematics. Presenting mathematical ideas of peoples from a variety of small scale and traditional cultures, it humanizes our view of mathematics and expands our conception of what is mathematical. Through engaging examples of how particular societies structure time, reach decisions about the future, make models and maps, systematize relationships and create intriguing figures, Marcia Ascher demonstrates that traditional cultures have mathematical ideas that are far more substantial and sophisticated than is generally acknowledged. Malagasy divination rituals, for example, rely on complex algebraic algorithms. And some cultures use calendars far more abstract and elegant than our own. Ascher also shows that certain concepts assumed to be universal, that time is a single progression, for instance, or that equality is a static relationship, are not. The Basque notion of equivalence, for example, is a dynamic and temporal one not adequately captured by the familiar equal sign. Other ideas taken to be the exclusive province of professionally trained Western mathematicians are in fact shared by people in many societies. The ideas discussed come from geographically varied cultures including the Borana and Malagasy of Africa, the Tongans and Marshall Islanders of Oceania, the Tamil of South India, the Basques of Western Europe and the Balinese and Kodi of Indonesia. This book belongs on the shelves of mathematicians, math students and math educators and in the hands of anyone interested in traditional societies or how people think. Illustrating how mathematical ideas play a vital role in diverse human endeavors, from navigation to social interaction to religion, it offers through the vehicle of mathematics, unique cultural encounters to any reader. Mediumship and Survival W.
